TOKYO (AP)—The violent off-season typhoon Ophelia, carrying 161-mile-an-hour centre winds, battered Pacific atolls today and headed for the Philippines.

Virtually all buildings on the tiny U.S.-administered Ulithi Atoll were reported destroyed, except for a concrete coast guard station.

Arena Probe Called

City Council Orders Commission to Appear

By JOHN MIKA

City council today summoned Memorial Arena Commission to a special meeting Saturday morning.

The extraordinary session was called to deal with "new information" brought before aldermen this morning as the arena controversy exploded again.

No decision was taken on whether Saturday's session will be open or closed to the public.

The call for first official meeting between council and the commission since the controversy began a month ago appeared to reverse council's official position. Only last week aldermen voted confidence in the commission after an informal meeting that ran to midnight.

NO REPLY

Meanwhile, arena commission members maintained silence on a verbatim report by commissioner Courtney Haddock in Wednesday edition of The Times severely lashing his colleagues.

Commission chairman F. G. Mulliner could not be reached but commissioner W. F. Pinfold said he was certain a reply would be made to Mr. Haddock's statement "but whether it will be by the commission as a whole or individually I do not know."

Mayor Scurrah said later that Mr. Mulliner told him a statement would be made by the commission Friday.

Aldermen spent more than an hour today discussing the series of controversies surrounding resignation of six former employees, the subsequent resignation of arena manager Joe Dukowski and the steps taken by the commission.

Following the meeting, Mayor Scurrah said:

"At a meeting in my office this morning attended by all the aldermen, it was decided to ask for a meeting with the arena commission to be held Saturday for the purpose of exploring new information that has been brought to council today.

"I have been informed that the commission also is making a statement Friday."

Unions Will Hold 'Review'

OTTAWA (CP)—The policy-making general conference committee of the 15 non-operating railway unions will be called into session if the government's stop-the-strike law is enacted, Frank H. Hall, chief union spokesman, said today.

He said that the committee—composed of some 100 general chairmen who represent the various locals in the 15 union "non-op" group—will "review and reassess the whole of their position."

Russ Orbit New Space Ship; Manned Flight 'Any Day Now'

CUBA TRAIN DERAILED AS BOMBINGS CONTINUE

HAVANA (UPI)—The Havana-Santiago express train was derailed today in a "spectacular" pileup near Santa Clara. Government sources suspected sabotage by foes of Premier Fidel Castro. Fourteen persons were reported injured.

The new incident came as hundreds of militiamen with shoot-to-kill orders patrolled the streets of Havana determined to stop repetition of the terror bombing which blacked out a fifth of Havana for 17 hours.

Cuba Sizzles Over Rocket

'Yankee Provocation' Charge Flung As Fragments Hit Island

HAVANA (UPI)—The official newspaper Revolution said today the United States had deliberately exploded a rocket over Cuba as a new "Yankee provocation." The newspaper reported that 40-pound rocket fragments fell on eastern Cuba.

Cuba mentioned no casualties or major damage but the incident may bring a further deterioration in U.S.-Cuban relations.

(The U.S. Defence Department said it could not "exclude the possibility" that a piece of a U.S. satellite rocket destroyed over the Atlantic Wednesday fell on Cuba. A spokesman said "we are concerned . . . and are investigating further.")

Informed sources in Havana said the government of Premier Fidel Castro was expected to lodge a strong protest with the United States for a "deliberate attack" carried out to demonstrate the Pentagon's contempt for the people of Cuba.

The 80-foot Thor-Able-Star rocket was destroyed by the range safety officer when a malfunction developed in flight. The rocket was to boost two satellites into orbit—the 203-pound Transit III—a navigation satellite and a 40-pound radiation study sphere carried as a hitch-hiker.

REPORTERS FRUSTRATED
The Thor-Able-Star was blown up less than three minutes after launching, out of range of ground observers. But the defence department delayed 40 minutes before reporting that the satellites failed to achieve orbit. It was another hour and 20 minutes before it was announced the rocket had been deliberately destroyed.

Reporters were frustrated in attempts to learn the reason for the delay.

Students Hold Out In Caracas Riots

CARACAS (AP)—Hardcore Leftist students, trading gunfire with troops, still held out in their self-styled "Stalin grad" dormitory at Caracas University today as disorders spread to half-a-dozen other cities.

President Romulo Betancourt's Moderate Socialist government cracked down hard on its leftist enemies in an effort to crush the week-long insurrection which has resulted in eight persons killed.

Police grabbed about 250 persons in raids on labor movements to prevent a bank strike and other threatened work stoppages.

The government said disorders, mainly rioting by high school students, had spread to Maracaibo, the oil centre, Barquisimeto, Venezuela's third largest city, Maturin, Portuguesa, Puerto la Cruz, and San Juan de los Morros, a health resort 50 miles southwest of the capital.

Two Dogs Aboard Five-Ton Sputnik

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union today put in orbit its third space ship of the year carrying plants, animals, insects and two dogs named "Little Bee" and "Little Fly."

(A scientist at Britain's Jodrell Bank Observatory said the feat shows the Russians now are capable of putting a man into space and bringing him back safely. "We expect a similar launching with a man aboard any day now," he said.)

Tass news agency said the "sputnik-ship," without the last stage of the carrier rocket weighs about five tons which makes it the heaviest of all the man-made satellites.

Premier Khrushchev called it "a great victory and a step to man's flight into space."

In West Germany, H. Kaminski, head of the Bochum Observatory, said he believed the space ship would be brought back to earth Friday. He said the space ship's orbit was too close to the earth's surface and it would get "too hot."

Tass said the experimental animals are being watched with radio-television and telemetering systems.

Ivan Shevlyakov, chief of the Moscow Planetarium's scientific department, said this space ship is circling closer to the earth than previous Soviet space vehicles.

"That means the present space ship cannot fly for a long time," he said. "If they are not going to bring it down to earth, it means it will burn up very soon in the friction of the earth's atmosphere as it gradually loses altitude. It is flying very close to the earth's atmosphere where the friction is high. We don't know yet if they plan to bring this space ship back to earth."

CIGAR ORBIT
Tass said the space ship is circling the earth in a cigar-shaped orbit every 88.6 minutes. It is following a path ranging from 115 miles above the earth at its nearest point to 164 miles at its farthest. The vehicle is at a 65-degree angle of inclination to the equatorial plane of the earth, and its radio transmitter is operating on 19.995 megacycles.

The Russians launched a 4.6-ton space ship last August.

Red Summit Talks Over
MOSCOW (Reuters)—The three-week Communist summit conference here is finished and a short communique is expected to be published Friday, usually well-informed sources said today.

According to these informants the communique will just record the fact that a meeting took place and that agreement was reached on the questions before it.

Eleven Candidates Seek Four Aldermanic Seats

Eleven candidates were in the running for four aldermanic seats when nominations closed today at City Hall.

Latest entries were 37-year-old newcomer Michael J. Griffin, director of a plumbing and heating firm, and Sam Lane, tourist industry spokesman.

Mr. Lane announced his candidacy Wednesday night. Mr. Griffin said he would file papers before the 2 p.m. deadline today.

No last minute entries were in sight for the two school trustee seats at stake for the city on Greater Victoria school board.

Veteran trustee Mrs. E. M. Maunsell and newcomer Ralph Fryer, a photographer, were to be declared elected by acclamation.

Besides the two final entries in the Dec. 8 election, candidates for aldermen are:

Ald. Arthur Dowell, Ald. A. I. Curtis, Charles Nelles, apartment house owner; A. W. Toone, union official; Mrs. Sally Rogers, housewife; Victor Williams, real estate salesman; W. C. Hudson, retired businessman and clubman; Cecil M. Parrott, retired businessman; Elgin Neish, commercial fisherman.

'CHILDREN OF INDIA'

Dimes Could Mean Much to Many

Poet Edgar Guest once wrote "At Christmas man is almost what God sent him here to be."

In India, only the lucky youngsters dream of finding a two-anna piece in rice cakes.

Countless children of Mother India are starving for 365 days a year. Even gifts of the barest necessities make a Christmas for these unfortunate youngsters.

If everybody in Greater Victoria contributed a 10-cent piece, there would be close to $15,000 realized for this laudable work!

Dr. Lotta Hirschmanova, director of the Unitarian Service Committee on whose behalf the Times is collecting money for India's hungry waifs, has this to say:

"I wonder how many of you have looked into the stark faces of utter need as I did during past weeks in India? Of course there is need in Canada, especially at this time of year with high unemployment.

"But fortunately for Canadians, conditions cannot be compared to scenes I have witnessed in travelling the length and breadth of India, into some of the most isolated villages and darkest slums.

'BABY, THIS IS AWFUL'

Crying heartily, but not for joy, were twin baby immigrants to America, on their arrival at New York today. Peter and his twin sister, Rosewitha, 10-month-old orphans, came from Austria with more than 100 displaced persons. Tears may turn to smiles today when infants meet their new parents in Fort Worth, Texas. (AP Wirephoto.)

THIS WORLD OF OURS

People and Things

(Compiled From Times News Services)

TIMMINS, Ont.—Maggie Leclair, princess of the Chippewyan Indians who insists she won't be 100 for another three years, has gone back to her trapline.

Rheumatism racking her frame, she checked out of hospital here this week and headed the 21 miles back into the Northern Ontario bush to her Kamiscotia Lake home.

Hospital officials said Maggie thought one day in hospital was fine but three days was just too much.

"It's back to the bushes for me," she said.

Princess Maggie, annoyed with estimates that place her age at 100, was brought to hospital here last week with rheumatic pains. Her condition was so bad it prevented her walking the 21 miles to town, she said.

Doctors said she was in excellent physical condition despite dining on lynx meat.

The lynx, they said, was caught in a trap set by the woman who is supposed to have given up trapping because of advancing age.

Maggie was born Maggie Buffalo on the shore of Night-hawk Lake. She married a great warrior of the Night-hawk band and outlived him and her four children.

When she left the hospital Monday, her doctor said she had one problem on her mind—where to get a new radio.

Why did she need a new one? She wrecked the old one by carving a hole in the cabinet and using it for a beaver trap.

ELIZABETH, N.J.—Singer Bobby Darin and movie starlet Sandra Dee were married at the apartment of a friend in a "spirit of the moment" ceremony here early today.

They left shortly afterward by plane for California, where the bride has to make a movie.

Darin, 24, and blonde Sandra, 18, were married by a magistrate at the apartment of Donald Krimmer, music publisher, and long-time friend of the singing idol of teen-agers.

which also carried plants, insects and animals including the dogs "Strelka" and "Belka." It was sent into orbit Aug. 19, and the Soviets said it landed safely the next day and its cargo recovered alive.

Last May, a space ship carrying a dummy man was sent into space by the Russians, but the shot turned out to be a failure and the vehicle disintegrated in space.

Foreign observers in Moscow noted that the latest successful space shot came during a secret meeting of the world's Communist leaders at the Kremlin to debate an ideological quarrel between Red China and the Soviet Union.

Moscow Radio began broadcasting signals from the new space ship this afternoon. The familiar "bleep-bleep" signals also were heard over Berlin, Stockholm, Leningrad and Peking, and at Fort Monmouth, N.J. West Germany's Bochum observatory claimed a record in tracking the ship through 23,600 miles of its orbit.

CUBA

At a pre-launch press briefing, reporters had questioned launch authorities extensively about the rocket's intended path over Cuba and the possibility of it landing there in case of trouble. They ducked the questions.

Only one other American rocket has flown over Cuba. That was another Thor-Able-Star which lofted a pair of satellites into successful orbit last June. Sources reported then that the countdown was delayed twice while launch officials and state department representatives conferred by phone on the reliability of the rocket.

Earlier reports that the rocket might have showered the eastern tip of Cuba with fragments when it was exploded came from the newspaper El Mundo which said the action caused "intense alarm" in the Holguin area.

UNPOPULATED AREA

The official paper Revolucion carried it further with a huge banner line which informed Cubans of a "New Provocation of Imperialism." It said the United States had made the rocket explode over Cuba.

Revolucion said the rocket exploded near Holguin around 2.45 p.m. Wednesday and that fragments including two cow-lings and numerous pieces were found in the area. It said fortunately the area was unpopulated, but it implied the attack was deliberate.

Revolucion said "the rocket explosion over Cuba serves to demonstrate the war experiments by the Yankee militarists are being carried out in air space over Cuban territory."

It said the Yankees know the risks involved because of previous failures but nevertheless "launch them towards the south from Cape Canaveral on the extreme southern point of Florida" without caring whether heavy fragments of iron and steel fall on Cuba, Panama, Jamaica, Puerto Rico and even Brazil.

'GRAVE DANGER'

"As result," Revolucion said, "it can be deduced the Cuban people and other peoples of America have been and are now being submitted to a grave danger from United States war experiments."

If the Yankee rulers persist in this type of tests they ought to direct the rockets in the direction of their own territory and they ought to be the ones to run the risk provoked by their failures," it said.

to leave the William Frantz area "because they were causing trouble."

A few minutes earlier, the same women pickets failed to keep a young minister from taking his daughter and two other white children into William Frantz.

TO BE TRIED

Goldfinch and three Negroes are to be tried Dec. 7 in the sit-in demonstrations.

This small crack in a nearly total boycott came in the wake of a federal court refusal to abandon integration in New Orleans.

Rev. Lloyd Foreman, a Methodist clergyman, evaded the picketing and jeering women massed in front of the William Frantz school. He took the three children in the back door.

When pickets ran screaming around the building, the one Negro girl who attends William Frantz walked into the front door unnoticed except by reporters.

Frustrated by Mr. Foreman's speedy entrance and exit, 50 screaming, chanting women thronged around the Foreman home. They yelled the usual insults and rough verses.

LARGER CROWDS

The crowd at William Frantz appeared to be somewhat larger than Wednesday. Today also there was a sprinkling of husky men.

Although a three-judge panel in U.S. district court issued temporary injunctions against interference with integration by about 700 state officials, the Louisiana Legislature remained defiant and restated its theory of interposition, which places the sovereignty of the state between the federal government and the people.

The legislature's house judiciary committee met at 8:30 a.m. and took less than a minute to approve a major new bill offering a choice between private schools and the traditional public system.

'Hard Times Ahead' Warns Liberal Senator

(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA — A former Liberal cabinet minister Wednesday forecast the federal government will wind up with a big deficit at the end of the current fiscal year, March 31.

"It's certain that Finance Minister Fleming, will not show a surplus but a very substantial deficit," Manitoba Senator Thomas Crerar told the Upper House during debate on the government's new housing program.

Mr. Fleming, in his budget speech last April, forecast a surplus of $12,000,000 for the 1960-61 fiscal year.

The Senate gave second reading approval in principle to a government bill cutting down payments on houses and increasing the amount which a builder can borrow under the National Housing Act. The measure later was approved by the Senate banking committee.

Senator Crerar, who served as mines minister under former prime minister W. L. Mackenzie King, said he is apprehensive that Canada "is in for a protracted period of difficult times."

The Canadian financial situation was serious, with revenues declining as a result of a recession. This was not a time for the government to increase expenditures on housing, a commodity in surplus supply in many areas of Canada.

Senator Crerar took a swipe at the plan to extend housing loans for dormitory construction at universities. If this sort of thing continued "we'll soon be offering bonuses to get students to attend universities."

Senator Thomas Reid (L.-British Columbia) said no new homes have been sold in New Westminster, B.C., in the last five months. The situation was so bad real estate agents were offering to sell homes for a down payment of only $100.

Ban on Builders' Politics Queried

Two cabinet ministers were questioned by opposition members concerning regulations preventing civil servants from participating in political campaigns.

Postmaster-General William Hamilton said regulations prohibit small contractors from participating in both federal and provincial political activity "while actually performing mail service work."

These outstanding instructions were issued in 1957 and are renewed before every federal and provincial election, he said.

He objected to a question by H. W. Herridge (CCF—Kootenay West) who asked for the reason for the restrictions, which he called "this limitation of the human rights and fundamental freedoms of mail contractors who are not civil servants and who, in many cases, are rendering only part-time service to the post office department."

New Regulations have been adopted aimed at halting discrimination under the National Housing Act on grounds of race, color or creed, Works Minister Walker announced. The new rules will provide for review by an independent arbitrator of any allegations of discrimination in NHA housing, Mr. Walker said.

Any merchant, builder or operator of NHA rental accommodation found to have practised discrimination would be barred from getting any NHA loans for three years. A clause to that effect would be inserted in every NHA mortgage.

A request for a "no discrimination" clause in NHA was made to the government Nov. 8 in a brief from the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities.

OTTAWA — An applauding Commons quickly and unanimously passed a motion extending congratulations and best wishes to Sir Winston Churchill on his 86th birthday.

The motion was moved by Prime Minister Diefenbaker and seconded by Opposition Leader Pearson.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Sir Winston made invincible the legions of freedom during the Second World War.

Mr. Pearson said Sir Winston was "a man for the ages" who had had a career unmatched in our times."

Veterans Minister Churchill informed H. W. Herridge (CCF—Kootenay West) that his department is studying proposals that the minimum size of properties under the Veterans Land Act be reduced to half an acre.

A Conservative backbencher asked the government Wednesday to delay imposing higher import valuations for tax purposes on British and European automobiles until the Royal commission on the automotive industry presents its report. The new policy is to go into effect today.

The suggestion was made by Ernest Broome (PC—Vancouver South).

Kennedy Makes First Appointment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President-elect John F. Kennedy today announced his selection of Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan as assistant secretary of state for Africa in the new administration.

This was the first major appointment announced by the incoming chief executive.

Kennedy called the post for Williams "a position of responsibility second to none in the new administration."

"The fate of Africa which is now the object of a giant Communist offensive will affect vitally the security of every citizen of the United States," Kennedy said.

"As chairman of the subcommittee on Africa on the Senate foreign relations committee I have come to know the importance of this continent in the world today."

GOP PRESSES VOTE FRAUD CHARGES

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican Chairman Thruston Morton, charging that vote frauds in the Nov. 8 election amounted to a national disgrace announced today he will conduct a wide investigation.

He set up a "national recount and fair elections committee" with these announced purposes:

1. To demand an honest count of this election in every suspicious state.
2. To investigate and track down the irregularities and frauds wherever they exist.

'Let's Be Friends' Again Nikita's Feeler to U.S.

LONDON (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has put out his first diplomatic "let's be friends" feelers to the United States since the U-2 incident, it was authoritatively learned today.

The Soviet leader, United Press International was informed, began his friendly overtures for a better understanding with the new United States administration a few days ago in contacts with western envoys in Moscow.

It was understood Khrushchev said he did not expect any speedy developments and realized the process of patching up American-Russian relations was bound to take time.

It was regarded highly significant that Khrushchev would put out "peace feelers" at a time when the Kremlin is at the height of its ideological conflict with Red China.

The development indicated

Khrushchev was determined to push his co-existence policy with the West despite Peking's pressure.

There have been other signs that Khrushchev wants to restore relations with Washington to the "happy era" before U-2. The first was his friendly telegram of congratulations to President-elect John F. Kennedy in which he expressed hope that Soviet-U.S. relations would revert to the understanding of the Franklin D. Roosevelt era.

Khrushchev, according to diplomatic dispatches from Moscow, has since apparently sought to impress on western envoys that he wants to be friends with Kennedy, though he was not pressing at this time for an immediate summit or even a firm date for a new heads-of-government meeting.

BOMB BLASTS THEATRE

MOSTAGANEM (AP)—A grenade exploded early today just inside the doors of a movie theatre in this Algerian town, injuring at least 25 persons, some of them severely. The victims included several children who had been attending the late show with their parents. All but two of the victims were Europeans.

Clean Up the Arena Mess!

THE SITUATION AT VICTORIA'S Memorial Arena, as exposed in a statement to The Times Wednesday night by Commissioner Courtney Haddock, is clearly intolerable. Mayor Scurrah and City Council, who have thus far displayed only token interest in the problem, should act without delay to clean it up.

Inexplicably, Mayor Scurrah has failed to show the leadership in this affair that he has evinced in the conduct of other city business. His original comment was a detached statement to the effect that "the matter is in hand." Mr. Haddock's report demonstrates vividly that it is not.

The unique contribution of City Council to this problem has been to move a vote of confidence in the Arena Commission, in which stand they are far removed from the public. There has been little to inspire confidence in the Commission's stubborn and perverse handling of the Dukowski resignation, and in its obvious reluctance to restore office manager Kenneth Noakes to his rightful post.

Mr. Haddock describes the Commission's stand on this latter question as "a travesty of justice." Mr. Noakes, it will be recalled, is the man who opened up the whole matter of irregularities in Arena management by a letter to the Commission on October 24. Now, Mr. Haddock says, he is to be punished for rendering this public service by being deprived of his livelihood.

Mr. W. D. Osborn, an Arena commissioner, denies having told two of the women who resigned with Mr. Noakes that he would take five employees back "one by one" to save face for the Commission, and that Mr. Noakes would be excluded. He has, however, in a prepared statement, enunciated the astonishing proposition that it will be "doubtful" to consider taking Mr. Noakes back because "some persons" have spoken in his behalf.

This line of reasoning is nothing short of outrageous. Far from being censured for bringing arena mismanagement to light, Mr. Noakes should be commended, reinstated, and compensated for the time he has lost away from the job.

This, of course, would require a generous spirit from a Commission which was prepared to admit that it was in the wrong. It is an unlikely eventuality from the present incumbents of the office.

The solution to current Arena difficulties is both simple and obvious. As was suggested in an editorial in this space last Friday, the first step should be to let Mr. Dukowski go immediately, with appropriate severance pay. Then the resignations of the present Commission should be invited, and a new Chairman appointed. His first duty would be to restore Mr. Noakes and his staff to their jobs and engage an interim manager (there is a man of experience at liberty in the city today), pending appointment of a full-time manager. An alert Council could achieve all this in a day or two.

But will the Mayor and Council put aside the petty bickering and the personalities of recent hearings and act in the best interests of the community, as Arena patrons so ardently desire?

Alderman candidates Charles Nelles, A. W. Toone and Victor Williams have pledged that their first project, if elected, will be to clean up the mess at the Arena. If the aldermen refuse to move on this matter, they should be replaced by people who will.

Justice and fair play must prevail. Mr. Haddock has said that he "will not give in" until this matter is cleaned up. He may be alone among Commissioners in this courageous stand, but he is far from alone in support from the citizens of Victoria.

Look at the Whole Picture

TRADE MINISTER HEES obviously is not fooled by the rising figures for Canada's export trade. He foresees that the world market conditions which have contributed to this increase in the past few months very probably will not continue, and he is urging his corps of trade commissioners in 49 countries to exert the utmost effort in selling Canadian goods abroad.

In doing so, the minister is not merely concerned with trying to create a surplus of exports over imports of goods, helpful as that would be. He knows that exchange of manufactured goods and raw materials is only part of Canada's balance of payments. And on the whole balance, despite well-advised increases in export of goods, the national deficit is running at well over $1 billion a year.

Last year it was $1.4 billions; this year the estimate is about $1.2 billions. Against this tremendous deficit—made up largely of huge sums sent abroad in bond interest, shipping charges, tourist spending and similar payments—the current four-month favorable balance of goods exchange is seen in its proper perspective. It is, in short, little more than a gesture.

An increase in exports is, of course, one way of helping to balance our international payments, and a good one. But it will have to be on a much larger scale than anything yet in prospect before it will significantly affect the general picture.

So far Canada has covered up its huge annual deficit of payments by importing capital in the form of large investments, chiefly by American interests. This is another way of saying that we are paying for our bond interest, shipping and trips abroad by selling our natural resources and manufacturing plants.

How long could a family or a business firm keep up that sort of "economic" activity? How long can a country do it?

Mr. Hees is trying to find a solution within the limits of his department of trade. But even if successful it will be only a partial solution. The basic remedy for Canada to stop living beyond its means and borrowing to make up the deficit. Until we do that, optimistic talk of a trade surplus can mean almost nothing.

Another Milestone

THE CONGRATULATIONS which flowed in all day yesterday to Sir Winston Churchill, up from his sickbed to celebrate his 86th birthday, reflected the universal esteem in which the aging statesman is held.

They came from all parts of the world, from all walks of life, from all ages of admirers, and they ranged from the personal message of the Queen and the friendly call of a junkman on his wagon, to the visit of flower-bearing neighborhood children.

Sir Winston is out of the direct limelight now. His appearances in the Commons are fewer, his public addresses rarer. But he is very much alive, very much in touch with affairs, and very much in the affections of his people. It takes little cause to bring forth public expressions of that affection and regard, as his birthday showed.

That is as it should be, for no nation worthy of the name could forget what Churchill did for it—indeed, for all the free world. As no other man could have—as perhaps no other individual in all history has ever done for his country—he kept it free and made it victorious. As so inherent a part of England now, no matter how many his days on earth, he will live forever in men's regard.

They Leave Their Echoes

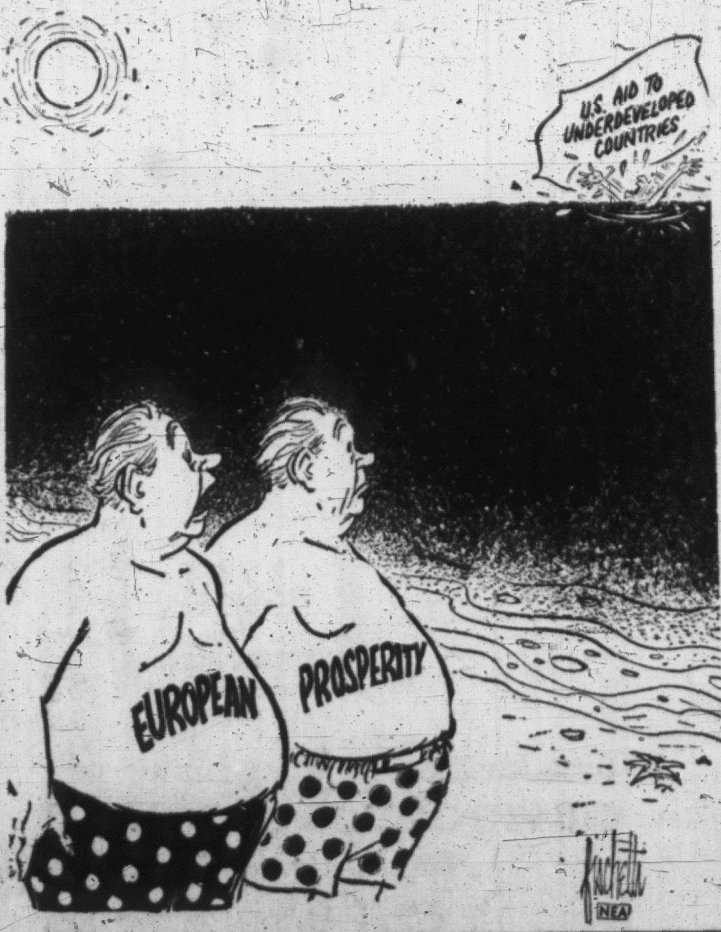

TIME WAS WHEN A WHOLE continent listened in nightly to Amos and Andy. It was a radio program that had a homely humor which appealed to everyone. Its favorite lines became everyday phrases for millions of people—"We-e-e-ll, I'll tell ya," "Len" me two dollahs till Sat'd'y," "Buzz me, Miss Blue," and a dozen others.

Last Saturday the radio program, after 32 years, was broadcast for the last time. Relatively few persons could have known of its demise until they read of it in the newspaper. Television and changing times had passed it by. Yet the classic which Charles Correll and Freeman Gosden created will live in many memories—a recollection of the days when humor was simple and funny, characters were amiable and likeable, listeners were constant and devoted.

The announcer's breathy "Here they are!" which followed the violin theme and was as much a part of the program as Andy's bumbling and Amos' friendly aid, is now a part of the past. But "here they were," and thousands on this continent were made happier by their presence.

West Germany Says 'No'

THIS small, normally imperturbable capital is still quivering like a jelly with the astonishment and indignation caused by the U.S. Treasury Department's final effort to mold the foreign and defense policies of the Eisenhower administration.

Chancellor Adenauer and his colleagues were neither surprised nor annoyed to be asked to help the U.S. government with its balance of payments problem. But the kind of aid that Secretary of the Treasury Anderson requested, and the way he chose to make his request left an inconceivably bad impression.

Secretary Anderson came here, to begin with, to demand nothing less than a radical permanent change in the most vital inner relationships of the Western Alliance. There is no other way to characterize the Anderson proposal that the Germans immediately assume responsibility for six hundred million dollars a year of the support costs of the U.S. troops in Germany.

Without Warning

Even if this is the right approach to the balance of payments problem, which is extremely doubtful, this kind of basic and permanent change is not normally made without warning or time for reflection, and almost at pistol point. But that, apparently, was the way Secretary Anderson and President Eisenhower thought the change ought to be made.

Secretary Anderson and his vast entourage arrived here late on November 20. The next day, U.S. Ambassador Dowling first heard, with horror, of the true nature of the secretary's mission. It is an open secret that Dowling at once made a strong plea for a different approach. But the plea was fruitless, and the great surprise was duly sprung upon the German negotiators on Monday morning.

In a personal letter to the Chancellor, President Eisenhower had mentioned support costs as one item among several that had a bearing on the balance of payments. But the Chancellor, Finance Minister Erhard and his colleagues were utterly unprepared for the spectacle that now met their eyes—the American Secretary of the Treasury frenetically, obsessively determined to discuss support cost and nothing else.

Payments Program

One thing that Secretary Anderson might well have discussed was the program for easing the U.S. balance of payments, which Finance Minister Erhard had got ready in advance.

By Erhard's estimate, this program would have assured an improvement of no less than twelve hundred million dollars in next year's payment balance. Whether or not this estimate is correct, the program contained one item about which there could be no argument.

Erhard offered prepayment, in cash on the barrelhead, of the six hundred and fifty million dollar German debt for American aid, which is not normally due to be paid off for another twenty years or more.

This prepayment, which Secretary Anderson had not asked for, actually assured him of a somewhat larger sum to ease his situation than his support cost demand would have provided.

Meaningful Fact

At one point in the negotiation, Chancellor Adenauer underlined this fairly meaningful fact, drily adding that if the Secretary of the Treasury would just take the money he wanted now in the form of debt prepayment, basic changes in the policy of the Western Alliance could then be left for discussion in an orderly manner with the representatives of the next American administration.

The Secretary merely brushed the Chancellor aside and went straight back to the supports costs. And so his mission ended in mutual bitterness and without any solid result.

Altogether, there has been no comparable episode in the whole postwar history of American diplomacy. It must be added that Secretary Anderson's fellow negotiator, Under Secretary of State Douglas Dillon, appears to be entirely free of blame for this episode, which has made a bad business much worse.

The official spokesmen in Washington are now saying that Dillon loved every minute of it. But the Germans are convinced that he hated every minute of it—which is just as well, since Dillon needs to retain the respect of America's allies. If he is to take a high post under President Kennedy.

Central Mystery

Meanwhile, the central mystery remains. Why was this grave balance of payments problem so long neglected, and then suddenly attacked in this publicly hysterical manner? Why was Secretary Anderson so obsessively fixed on the one expedient that was sure to be especially repellent to the Germans?

Why was this desperate effort made to introduce a basic change in our foreign relations in the last weeks of a dying administration?

There are no easy answers to these questions. Only one thing is certain. This balance of payments problem, now further inflamed by the Secretary of the Treasury, himself, is one of the more unpleasant elements in the far from pleasant heritage of President-elect Kennedy, whose power to revive the waning Western Alliance will be gravely limited by the weakness of the dollar on the international exchanges.

AS FUGITIVES TALK

The Red China Anthill

By DERRICK SINGTON

TO get the material for "The Anthill" (Stevens, 37s. 6d.), Susanne Labin interviewed, in Hong Kong, a score or so of fugitives recently escaped from the Chinese People's Republic. Their experiences reveal what it has been like, in recent years, to get at odds with the powers that be, under Mao Tse-tung's grim and fanatical tyranny.

There is the student, required to remould his mind, who, having refused to do so, was bullied and beaten in prison until he made the outward gesture (even after submission he was "sent to Coventry" for six months in the library where he worked); there is the merchant who had been caught up in the "Five Antis" campaign to expose the capitalists, and who, declining to confess to tax-evasion, of which he had not been guilty, was harassed and threatened till he complied, thus "justifying" the Communist authorities in taking away half his business (this was not the end of it—years later he had to walk in a procession, carry a placard on which had been written: "I have stolen the property of the people"); there is the metal-worker, disillusioned with broken promises of "better days" and the dictatorship of officials; there is the agricultural laborer who got his first morsel of land in 1950, only to become a wage-earner again under the brigadiers of collectivization and to see his wife taken away for having "sabotaged political studies."

More Shocking

We learn too—and it is more shocking than the oppression of the individual—how the regime bears down on human relationships, changing love and affection into hatred and betrayal: the student's wife had left him, fearing that persecution would be extended to her and to their children; the merchant's elder daughter, having joined the party, was threatening to denounce her sister; the peasant's six-year-old son was spying on him; a young girl had involuntarily ruined her father through disclosing at school that she had clashed with him, at home, in political argument.

Such pin-pointed tragedies remind us that totalitarianism is one of the great evils of our century.

The interviews do not, however, provide convincing evidence that—as the authors evidently believe—the Communist rulers of China will "be overthrown by a revolt of their own people."

One of her interlocutors, an ex-Communist who had clashed physically with a party superior, had turned partisan, but resistance movements do not seem to have been sufficiently in the minds of the others interviewed to have elicited a mention.

Forces in Latin-America

In your issue of November 17, first page, you reported "Ice sends forces to Latin-America."

U.S. naval forces have been dispatched to bolster the tottering dictatorships of Guatemala and Nicaragua—dictatorships which were fostered directly by the U.S. After the Marines left Nicaragua a West Point trained Nicaraguan-Somoza—took over power and established a dictatorship which lasted until he was assassinated when his two sons took over power and still maintain a dictatorship. The Guatemalan revolution was similarly fostered by the U.S. and if it had not been for the assistance of the U.S. in armaments and planes it is very doubtful that the revolution would have succeeded. When events like this happen in Hungary there is an uproar from the U.S. government and press. I do not approve of the Russian intervention in Hungary but after all Russia does not claim to be the leader of free peoples and the right of people to elect the government of their choice.

Castro is condemned by the U.S. because he dared to curb the power of the U.S. in Cuba and let me assure your readers that the economic power of the U.S. in all Latin-America is overwhelming. Whenever any man in these Latin-American countries tries to curb this power he is immediately termed a Communist. I lived in Latin-America for some 28½ years and I do know something about this. Let me quote from Newsweek magazine of 31 Oct. "How tight the squeeze." This phrase referred to Cuba where 75 per cent of imports originated from the U.S. and the majority of Cuban industry was in the hands of Americans with a very large part of Cuban exports being destined for the U.S.

What chance has Castro against such economic power?

When Panamanians agitate for a greater share of the proceeds of the Panama Canal they are immediately classified as Communists. When Nasser took over the Suez Canal, and incidentally is operating it most efficiently, there was no protest from our American cousins and in fact he was supported by the U.S. when the

Two Communist officials, "Ku" of the Old Guard, and "Lei," a young cadre, trained after the party came to power, appear to have fled because they feared prosecution rather than because they had taken any strong opposition line. "Violette," a Frenchwoman married to a Chinese peasant, and deported by the Communists, even told Madame Labin that "the young people (presumably in her village) were carried away by the propaganda; they swallowed it all."

The all-important question is: Do the Chinese peasants, through whom Mao achieved power, already feel that the hardships under his "ordered" regime are worse than the still remembered famines, insecurity and deprivations during the War Lord period?

Some of those interviewed answered the question affirmatively. But the interviews took place in Hong Kong where refugees are unlikely to risk offending the Chinese Nationals. This prevents one from taking their statements entirely at face value.

No Evidence

The Chinese peasants may one day embark on organized resistance, but this book provides no evidence that that time is at hand.

There are other striking things in the book. The Old Guard Communist, "Ku," told the authors that six to seven million peasants were killed in the collectivization struggle; but it would be important to know more about the basis of this grim calculation. Tantalizingly, we are told hardly anything about the case of a woman who had been "tried" for advocating birth-control.

The case of "Chang," the bank clerk who had been bullied into confessing mythical defalcations, but later rehabilitated as a result of a "reform of the reformers," suggests that rectification campaigns in China occasionally have some effect, depending probably on the presence of a scrupulous party official at a middle level.

Part of "The Anthill" consists of a polemic with a French journalist whose defence of Mao's forced industrialization the authors claim to have demolished tooth and nail.

There is also a discussion with a Chinese professor who agrees with her in approving the long-standing United States policy of virtual boycott of Peking. The arguments adduced are well known ones based on the hope of an "explosion" inside China, but there will be many who will doubt their wisdom.

(By Special Arrangement with The Quillings)

British and French tried to do something about it. I am wondering if the Americans would be as complacent if the Panama Government decided to nationalize the Panama Canal.

Here in Canada we are also in the economic grip of the U.S. and I am wondering if the average Canadian realizes the frightening future which awaits our country unless steps are taken soon to rectify the present situation. Unfortunately our leaders in Ottawa do not have the courage to take such steps which would protect future generations of Canadians. It may already be too late.

Road to Disaster

The Voice of Women movement, which has a large and rapidly growing membership in British Columbia, has always stressed the need for sanity in the cold war, for a calm and reasoned approach in the face of bluster and intransigence, for untiring efforts to seek and initiate constructive proposals to ease international tension, instead of merely countering those which are destructive.

A U.S. submarine, the George Washington, has sailed on a "war deterrent mission" armed with hydrogen bombs equalling the destructive power of all the bombs dropped during Second World War. Those who did not experience an air raid in the last war might try to recall one they've seen in a movie—it will be no exaggeration. Then multiply that by the hundreds and thousands of air raids that took place all over the world between 1930 and 1945. Then add Hiroshima and Nagasaki. The question then is, will the voyage of the George Washington to its "undisclosed destination" do anything to ease cold war tensions? Does it represent a constructive approach to cold war strategy?

We submit that this is the nuclear deterrent policy carried ad absurdum. We submit that the line between such a deterrent and an act of provocation is indistinguishable, except for intent—and who in Russia, for example, is likely to see in all this the best of intentions? We submit that if the positions were reversed (and we have now invited retaliation in kind) the Western world would be outraged. And we submit that this kind of action can only lead to disaster.

What can we do? Join a movement whose activities are focussed on the need to find peaceful solutions to the world's problems. There are several such movements in Canada which, like Voice of Women, are not Communist, and which have constructive and thoughtful programs to offer. Or work within the organizations to which we already belong to gain support for resolutions to the government on sane cold war policies. Certainly write to our MPs and men like Mr. Diefenbaker, Mr. Green, Mr. Pearson. These are the channels through which we must work in a democracy. This is the way of reason and of sanity. It may not be as dramatic as some might wish, but if we believe in democracy and want to see it prevail, this is the way it must be done. Through our Government we must try to bring Canadian opinion to bear upon those policies of other governments when we believe they can only lead us closer to nuclear annihilation.

Moving Ahead on Water Safety

I WAS five or six when I received my first lesson in water safety. It was dramatic and emphatic.

We kids around Foul Bay knew that the best cedar slabs for rafts always came to rest nestling in the shingle of Woody Bay. So we'd scramble around the rocks to Woody, dig out the slabs and with pry and roller hoist them into the water. Then we'd paddle them to the big bay for the day's cruising.

Those of us who could not swim had to perform the chore when the tide was reasonably low. Otherwise we had to make our way over deep water. But if the tide was too low, the rocks called Pig Island, which jut into the salt chuck at the foot of Foul Bay Road, formed a barrier. We had to go around them and that took us out over our heads.

There came a day when I found a wonderful hum of cedar at Woody and when I had to go the long way around. Off Pig Island I was caught in the swell from a passing CPR boat. To stabilize my craft I had to let both legs down into the water, one on each side of the slab.

It was all pretty exciting out there, bobbing around, and quite a crowd gathered on the beach—my mother and sister in it—to cheer me. They shouted encouragement and I came in like a hero—until I hit the beach.

Once on the sand Mother took me by the ear and asked: "How many times have I told you to keep out of deep water? How many times have I told you you'll have to learn to swim before you go out there? Come along, young man."

So we went. I travelled sideways with my ear still in Mother's grip, along the beach, up the steps, across the road, into the house and up to the north bedroom. As we passed through the kitchen, Mother reached the bamboo cane from its accustomed place and when we were nicely in the bedroom she released me with a single admonition: "Bend down."

I argued. I wept. I wailed. Mother repeated herself: "Bend down." Eventually I bent. Then I wept and wailed more loudly. The water safety lesson was effective in part. I never got caught again.

A few years later I took Royal Life-Saving Society courses at the old VASC when it was located in the floating clubhouse at the foot of Inez Drive on Gorge Road. It was the thing to do.

My sister, whom I credit with a sort of sneaky assist in my first water safety lesson, took them before me, and did right well. She won the Hibberson Cup for the Award of Merit examination.

Each Tuesday night at the old club we'd line up on the float: Tommy, Gracie, Kathy and Molly Wellburn, Dorothy Melville, Iris Philbrook, Midge Breckenridge, Jack Clyde, the Silburns, George, Slim and Winnie, the Brookses, Brian Hunnings, John Foubister, the Robertsons, Dave Bainave, Stanyon and Pete Johnson—all the gang—and receive instruction, sometimes from Jock McNeil, sometimes from Alice Hibberson, sometimes from Gracie Wellburn, who was a cracker-jack life-saver. We weren't all in the same class, but we all took the tests eventually.

If you'll pardon my conceit, I was pretty good—won the Hibberson Cup for the silver medal and later the big cup Bob and Alice Hibberson gave for provincial competition.

From that day to this, though I've spent almost all my life beside the water, I've never used Royal Life-Saving Society practices in an emergency. I've been one of the lucky ones not around when the techniques were needed.

For all that, until recently, I've figured everyone should know the rescues and releases and the means of applying artificial respiration. But I've seldom noticed, in news accounts of drownings and near drownings, that the RLS methods were effective.

Now, without knowing how to perform it, I've come to the belief that the mouth-to-mouth system of resuscitation is the thing. Art Burgess, at the Y, is going to show me how to do it.

In the meantime, for those who are interested—and can anyone afford not to be interested in means of saving life?—my friends at the Red Cross are going to feature water safety work at their open house in their premises at 1046 Fort Street on Saturday.

Statistically, they're doing very well on water safety. About 6,000 received instruction in B.C. during the year, 1,700 passed examinations on the Island and 24 candidates qualified as instructors.

The Red Cross Open House offers many attractions in displays and demonstrations of the organization's work here. The section on water safety, in itself, ought to be worth a visit on Saturday.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Lady Chatterley Sells Out

LONDON—Round and about . . . The height of one-upmanship at the moment is possession of a copy of the Penguin edition of Lady Chatterley's Lover. The lucky few who managed to buy copies are brandishing them smugly. It was undoubtedly the quickest sell-out in publishing history. All those booksellers who were able to get supplies were sold minutes of opening their doors.

The other outlets for paperbacks (local tobacconists, newsagents) were besieged by irate customers who had put in advance orders but had no chance of getting copies.

These shops had received a circular letter from the wholesalers explaining that Penguins were quite unable to cope with the demand and therefore the quota for each shop was 1 (one) copy.

Frustrated purchasers now have a choice of either buying the expurgated version (now nicknamed Lady Chatterley's Friend) or waiting the three weeks it will take Penguin to get on sale the 300,000 second edition with which they'll augment the hopelessly inadequate 200,000 initial printing.

George Bernard Shaw never had it so good when he was alive. The 10th anniversary of his death and the tally of his posthumous earnings in that decade (mainly from My Fair Lady) stands at $2,200,000.

Because of death duties, he died technically a bankrupt to the tune of $495,000. He once confessed that up to age of 40 he had earned less than $3,000 by his pen. Winners such as Pygmalion (written when he was 56), Saint Joan (at 67) and The Apple Cart (at 73) all came late in life.

Today's Traffic Trouble Tip

Crosswalk Battleground

Few motorists are subject to the abuse and derision heaped by some drivers on the casual pedestrian.

Certainly, drivers cuss each other with vigor, but the hapless man on foot seems a special target.

His rights usually come before those of motorists, although today's drivers often overlook this fact, especially when the pedestrian takes gliding advantage of it, or ignores motor traffic entirely.

The crosswalk usually is the meeting ground of man and machine, too often resulting in injury to the man.

Of course, pedestrians sometimes challenge vehicles at places other than crosswalks—which may or may not be at an intersection—and there they must give way to street traffic.

In a crosswalk the pedestrian is supreme and vehicles must always give in where there is any doubt about "who got there first."

Do many people understand just how broad a subject is covered by the term "crosswalk"?

To some it may come as a surprise to learn that a crosswalk is any part of a roadway included in or immediately next to an intersection and may or may not be marked by white lines or a sign.

Or it may be some other place where there is a distinct marking, either as mentioned, or perhaps by a flashing red or amber light.

More about crosswalks will be discussed Friday.

SYNOPSIS—A low-pressure area remains offshore to give rather unsettled weather but in general this low-pressure area is weakening. A final surge of moist air is gathering offshore California but it is likely that most of this surge will move inland over the coastal states and miss British Columbia.

Except for a few periods of sunshine in some interior areas skies will continue cloudy over B.C. for the next two days. Scattered showers are likely on the coast more pronounced on the south coast tonight and on the north coast Friday. Little significant precipitation is likely inland and temperatures will continue relatively mild for this time of year.

REMEMBER THE IRISH

VANCOUVER—Provincial archivist Willard Ireland says it is time the Irish were remembered in B.C.'s history. He said the restless "polyglot" mob that were the province's first settlers "needed good police service and they got it from men of the Irish Constabulary, a member of which started the old Provincial police."

Socreds Retain Seat In Alberta Byelection

CARSTAIRS, Alta. (CP)—A 23-year-old school teacher became the youngest person to win a seat in the Alberta legislature by capturing Wednesday's Didsbury byelection for the Social Credit party.

The victory by Robert Clark in his first bid for public office fattened the already heavy majority held by the Social Credit government of Premier Manning. The party now holds 60 of the legislature's 65 seats.

Mr. Clark, who devotes most of his teaching time to physical education in junior high grades at Sundre, held the seat by more than 1,000 votes over his Liberal opponent, farmer James A. Lore, 29, also a newcomer to politics. Mayor Wilfred Henry Metz, 54, of Didsbury, ran third as Progressive Conservative candidate.

The rural constituency has voted Social Credit all but once since the party's 1935 sweep into power. It went independent for four years in the 1940 general election.

New House standings: Social Credit 60, Liberal 1, Progressive Conservative 1, Coalition 1, Independent Social Credit 1, vacant 1. No date has

Ottawa Move to Protect Car Industry Questioned

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Changes in evaluation of imported motor vehicles and parts for excise and sales tax purposes came into effect today and still no one, least of all the federal government, can give a national explanation of the move. The new policy was introduced by the government as a result of pressure applied by the United Auto Workers' Union on the grounds that it would help maintain employment in their industry. The Canadian manufacturers are against the idea since they can see that the end result of the move will be to make all cars — domestic, European imports and U.S. imports — more expensive for the buyer.

Oddly enough, Prime Minister Diefenbaker himself unwittingly provided an argument against re-evaluation in rebuttal in the Commons last week to charges by Opposition leader Pearson that the Canadian economy was in dire straits.

Among the statistics quoted by the PM to prove the essential soundness of the economy were these on Canadian production of motor vehicles:

In the week ended Nov. 19 passenger car production was up from the previous week by almost 300 units and had increased from the previous month by 15.6 per cent. The increase from one year ago was a startling 85.8 per cent.

Canadian truck production in the same week was up by 8 per cent from the previous month and by 32.3 per cent from last year.

It is difficult to argue from figures like these that any form of protectionism is needed by the domestic auto industry. Certainly they add point to the Victoria Chamber of Commerce's protest last week which pointed out the anomaly of the government taking appropriate action to freeze the rail strike situation until the McPherson royal commission report is received while at the same time going ahead with the auto re-evaluation plan before the royal commission has completed its studies.

Importance to this part of the country of the federal conference on exports next week in Ottawa cannot be overstressed. B.C. lives by its exports and the present sag in the province's economy is attributable directly to loss of export markets for its products.

During the export drive conference the entire Trade Commission staff will be on hand to discuss, in individual interviews with business men, export possibilities to some 60 countries throughout the world.

It is to be hoped that business leaders from other parts of the province are responding to this challenge in a more vigorous manner than Victoria business men.

So far as can be discovered not one business leader from this community plans to attend the conference.

Sapphire Petroleum Ltd. is going into the bowling business, president Maxwell Goldhar told stockholders at Toronto, with planned acquisition of more than 300 lanes in seven

New England states establishments.

Stockholders will be asked to approve the deal which would involve exchange of stock. The company is also considering entering the curling rink business.

Reaction of many U.S. business executives to Canadian government's proposal to bring about more Canadian industry and resources has been blunt and brutal, according to the Financial Post.

Post writer Norton Anderson, interviewed top men at the 40th meeting of the National Industrial Conference Board in Pittsburgh and got these reactions:

"These foolish nationalistic tendencies in Canada ignore the important role we play in helping to develop Canada."

Canadians should be "grateful that U.S. business has invested money and technical know-how in Canada."

"National sentiment is bunk. It's a matter of good management. A U.S. company investing in Canada is entitled to all the fruits of that Canadian effort."

"No Canadian is prevented from investing in our U.S. companies."

"Minority interest in the hands of Canadians would be bothersome. We wouldn't be able to wheel the Canadian subsidiary to suit our best interests. We would be accountable to those Canadian shareholders."

"What are Canadians crying about? If the money was available in Canada to develop resources and industry, U.S. interests would not be there."

Canadians should be "mightily pleased Americans are digging in up there, helping to build up the country."

WINNIEPEG (CP) — Most

prices showed a firm trend in slow trading today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Export business was quiet in all commodities although small parcels of flax were reported sold to Japan.

The only report of overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat was a small lot to Ecuador.

Lakehead prices for Class Two, IWA and domestic wheat all were unchanged from Wednesday.

Chicago (AP) — Selling which became fairly general in the early afternoon took wheat and corn futures down about a cent a bushel on the Board of Trade today.

Until the selling flurry, both wheat and corn had shifted within narrow ranges around previous closes. At one time in early dealings both December and March wheat traded at seasonal highs.

Until the selling flurry, both wheat and corn had shifted within narrow ranges around previous closes. At one time in early dealings both December and March wheat traded at seasonal highs.

Chicago (AP) — Selling which became fairly general in the early afternoon took wheat and corn futures down about a cent a bushel on the Board of Trade today.

Until the selling flurry, both wheat and corn had shifted within narrow ranges around previous closes. At one time in early dealings both December and March wheat traded at seasonal highs.

Million More Jobs Needed by 1965

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada will need 1,000,000 more jobs by 1965 to absorb immigrants and the natural increase in population and reduce the backlog of unemployment, a Senate committee was told Wednesday.

In a brief applauded by the Senators as the best analysis that has been made of the subject, F. T. Denton of Toronto said his target of a 20-per-cent increase in employment opportunities was "a rather large increase for a five-year period."

John J. Deutsch, vice-principal of Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., and leading Canadian economist hired by the committee to direct its study of manpower and employment problems, said even other studies will be presented at later meetings. They were prepared at the committee's direction last session.

Reviewing the brief, Mr. Deutsch said the most striking feature of the current problem is that about half the increase of the labor force in the last 10 years came from immigration, and recent immigrants have had a higher degree of skilled and professional training.

The greatest gap in employment is created by the fact that the majority of Canadians seeking jobs are insufficiently educated and lack the necessary skills.

Agriculture was losing young people to the cities, and industrial employment is becoming more concentrated in Ontario and Quebec.

Studies to be presented to the committee later will go into the problem of chronic, depressed areas and into the effects of automation.

Mr. Deutsch said there are prospects for increasing employment in the service, as opposed to the goods-producing industries. As Canadians become better off they will spend more money on services.

"But we are heavily dependent on goods-producing industries for exports," he added.

"The forecast for goods-producing industries in the next five years is almost a straight level in employment opportunities, while the service industries will show a steady rise."

"The farm-working force will almost surely decline further, although there has been evidence in recent years that the rate of decline is slowing down."

Farm population, represented 20 per cent of the total population of the country 10 years ago and now has fallen to 12 per cent. Agriculture has 11 per cent of the national income.

Unfair Competition Claim

LANGLEY, B.C. (CP)—The British Columbia Farmers' Union Tuesday expressed a use should not be allowed into need for the federal government to limit imports of farm produce.

The farmers, in annual convention, said they need help from Ottawa to meet unfair competition through rapidly increasing imports of farm products.

Ottawa will be asked to limit imports to quantities needed for immediate consumption.

Under the present system, the imports are in particularly large quantities just before similar British Columbia produce comes to market.

The strike was proposed because the federal government had not implemented any of the requests of the March to Ottawa delegation. Another reason was due to increased hardship encountered by the farmers.

West German Group Buys More Timber

Agents today confirmed purchase of a second piece of Vancouver Island property by a West German group of timber interests.

Prince von Furstenburg has bought about 2,000 acres of timber off the Malahat near Shawnigan Lake for a reported $90,000.

The prince and associates visited Victoria in October and bought Morsey Island, 1,400 acres, for about $200,000.

They said then they planned to enter the B.C. forest industry; to do some logging and possibly set up a mill or plant. They also saw B.C. government officials.

The Malahat area will become a tree farm.

The prince heads a substantial West German lumber operation, including sawmills and logging camps.

REHEARSING for their first concert of the season are these members of Greater Victoria Schools Symphony Orchestra, now conducted by Marie Milburn. Front row: Valerie Ko, trombone; Doreen Logan, 'cello.

Back: Lesley Fraser, flute; Corinne Field and Margaret Morgan, violins. The orchestra will play for the Silver Threads organization at Kirk Hall, Courtney Street, next Wednesday at 3:45 p.m. (Photo by Irving Strickland.)

INTERIOR GROUPS URGE PM:

'Defer Columbia Dams'

By The Canadian Press
An urgent plea to defer final consideration of plans to dam the Columbia river system has been sent to Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

The wire, sent by CCF member of the legislature George Hobbs on behalf of Revelstoke, its chamber of commerce, the Nakusp chamber and other organizations in his Revelstoke constituency, is one of a growing number of protests in the interior.

The protests are mostly connected with the High Arrow dam across the lower Arrow Lakes, one of a series of dams in the multi-million-dollar Columbia hydro-electric project agreed to by the United States, British Columbia and Canada.

The dam would raise the level of the Arrow Lakes 40 feet and would flood settled land.

Decision to wire an urgent plea to the prime minister was made at a meeting of the Nakusp chamber Tuesday night.

On the same night the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce passed a resolution asking the federal and provincial governments to defer immediately any commitments for construction of the High Arrow until complete information is made available to the chamber and communities affected.

Mr. Hobbs' wire said "many aspects of the proposed treaty between the U.S. and Canada have serious and prejudicial effects on the economy of Canada and B.C. and destroy vital Canadian and B.C. equities."

He said representatives could meet the prime minister in one or two weeks.

W. B. Hughes-Games of Kelowna, president of the Okanagan and Mainline District Associated Boards of Trade, said Wednesday the Revelstoke chamber has asked that a special emergency meetings of the boards be called in December to consider the High Arrow proposal.

RUSS DON'T EVEN LIKE MARK TWAIN

LONDON (Reuters) — Moscow radio commemorated the 125th anniversary of the birth of Mark Twain, Wednesday, by describing the American writer as an enemy of "religious dogmas and church legends". The program offered a reading of a Twain pamphlet, "Biblical Teachings and Religious Tactics", an attack on church approval of slave-holding and witch-burning laws.

B.C. School Buses Rigidly Inspected

School buses in B.C. are inspected for mechanical defects twice yearly and drivers are re-tested every three years, George Lindsay, Superintendent of Motor Vehicles, said Wednesday.

"School bus standards in B.C. are very rigid compared with other parts of Canada."

He was commenting on the Manitoba government's plan to start testing all school bus drivers in the province to insure they are up to provincial driving standards.

The Manitoba move was disclosed following the level crossing crash between a bus and a train Tuesday at La Mont, Alta., when 17 were killed.

He said more than 600 school buses are operating in B.C. under contract to school boards. Drivers must pass a Class A chauffeur's examination.

"Our school bus drivers have had an enviable record so far," Mr. Lindsay said. "We are doing everything we can to continue that record."

TWO for the SHOW

By PHIL LEE

AA (Oscar Wilde) A (Don't Miss) BB (Worthwhile) B (For Rainy Days) C (To see in time)

(?) "OSCAR WILDE" (Royal)—Perversion is a most unpleasant subject and, therefore, it is to the credit of Britain's Films Around the World that this 96-minute delineation of the life and trial of brilliant poet-playwright Oscar Wilde (1854-1900) was carried out with restraint and—as much as the subject matter allows—with good taste.

For this credit must go to actors Robert Morley in the title role, Phyllis Calvert, as his wife Constance, John Neville as the effeminate son of the Marquis of Queensberry, played by Edward Chapman, Sir Ralph Richardson, Dennis Price, Alexander Knox and, for that matter, the entire cast.

Nor should one forget director Gregory Ratoff or Jo Eisinger's screenplay as based on "Oscar Wilde," by Leslie and Sewall Stokes.

Scout Chiefs Hear Details Of Jamboree

It is expected close to 3,500 Scouts from throughout Canada will attend the Third Canadian Jamboree July 6-15, 1961, at Connaught Ranges near Ottawa, R. C. Stevenson, Montreal, vice-president, Canadian General Council of the Boy Scouts Association, said here this week.

Jamboree theme will be "Canadian Scouting From Sea to Sea," he told Scout officials here.

Following the jamboree the first National Boy Scout Sailing Regatta will be held on the Lake of Two Mountains, 40 miles west of Montreal and 100 miles from the jamboree site.

Entries will consist of two-Scout crews, sailing 12-foot firefly dinghies belonging to the Sea Scout base "Venture" in Montreal.

Mr. Stevenson also announced that Boy Scout Week will be marked Feb. 20, 1961, and that starting in January contributions will be solicited for the new headquarters building to be opened that month in Ottawa.

TWO GROUPS PERFORM

Barclay Singers Draw Full House

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Unfortunately, while other nights of this week offered nothing in the way of live entertainment, two Victoria vocal ensembles elected to give their pre-Christmas concerts on the same night—Wednesday.

Earlier publicizing of date and program, as well as its reputation for good musical work, brought the Barclay Singers and their guest artists a capacity audience at Holyrood House.

Arion Male Voice Choir at Fellowship Hall was less fortunate, having kept quiet about their effort until the last minute.

Nevertheless, their pleasantly contrasted program, sung with verve and attention to musical detail under the leadership of Frank Tupman, was enjoyed by the audience as were the fine soprano solos of guest artist Peggy Walton Packard.

Folk Melodies

Vera Barclay's singers presented a Scottish program to an enthusiastic audience.

Familiar airs and folk melodies were performed, aside from the ensemble, by outstanding city singers Euphie Dockree and John Dunbar, accordionist Ronnie Chisholm and talented junior sopranos Judy Roberts and Anita Loudon.

Highland dancers from the Adeline Duncan Studio were Margaret Brown and Angus Mackenzie.

Red Cross Work Show Set Saturday

Deeds performed by Red Cross workers in times of emergency will be demonstrated at a special open house at Red Cross House, 1046 Fort, next Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

There will be demonstrations of artificial respiration, arts and crafts and women's work groups sewing, knitting and quilting.

The Red Cross has been active in British Columbia for 60 years past. It was started here during the South African War when a group of Victoria women banded together to sew, knit and make first aid supplies under auspices of the British Red Cross.

Today the B.C. Red Cross division has more than 219,000 volunteer members in 93 branches, responsible for 15 important services in the community.

Volunteers carry on 97 per cent of this work.

City Photographer On Yucatan Safari

A life-time dream has come true for William D. Buxton of Victoria, who is presently studying at the Brooks Institute of Photography at Santa Barbara, California.

He has been chosen to accompany an expedition to southern Mexico and the Yucatan Peninsula where a search will be made for ancient caves once inhabited by Indians.

The expedition, led by Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Flickinger of Tele-Travel Pictures, also plans to study the culture of a little known Indian tribe and to explore a mountain range.

The party will leave for Mexico before Christmas and will be away for three months.

Mr. Buxton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Buxton, 2050 Oak Bay Avenue.

Windfall to Aid Esquimalt Arena

Esquimalt's sports arena, on which work started Tuesday, will receive a number of improvements as the result of a windfall received by the council.

The whole scheme has been approved as a winter works project by the provincial and federal governments, which is expected to make an extra amount of $50,000 available over and above the $400,000 bylaw approved by the ratepayers.

Rather than use this to help defray the original cost, the council has decided to use the money by adding improvements which at one time were thought to be impossible to include.

Extras include a banquet hall, fire escapes, a complete kitchen, large viewing windows overlooking the curling rink, and improvements in the external appearance, the entrance and to the electrical installations.

Farmer Construction, Ltd., the contractors, will have a crew of about 25 men working on the project through the winter and Esquimalt council, which is looking after outside work, will maintain a five or seven-man crew.

Completion date has been set for June 1 next year.

S. Africa Copies U.S. Sit-In Idea

CAPE TOWN (AP)—The sit-in tactics employed by Negroes in the United States to fight discrimination at lunch counters now are being attempted in this legislative capital of racially-segregated South Africa.

Non-whites are invading restaurants and stores accompanied by sympathetic whites, chiefly members of the small anti-segregation Liberal party. Author Alan Paton is one of the party's leading members.

Twice in five days a big department store on Adderley Street, Cape Town's main shopping street, was the scene of an incident.

Under South Africa's Group Areas Act it is an offence for people of different races to sit and take meals together in restaurants, tea rooms or eating houses.

NOT OFFENCE STANDING

Oddly, it is not an offence for non-whites in a white area to take a cold drink in a cafe and drink it while standing. Members of different racial groups must sit together for the act to be infringed.

The maximum penalty for such infringement is the equivalent of a $360, fine or two years in jail.

The first incident here involved a group of eight non-whites and five whites who entered the store's restaurant during the Saturday shopping peak and sat at tables waiting to be served. A manager told them it was against the law to serve them. When the group remained at its seats a "this section is closed" notice was put beside them. The sit-in party eventually left peacefully.

Five days later the second group raised no protest against going along with the police to the station to leave their names. This group of seven included one Negro and several whites and coloreds (mixed bloods).

ADDRESS by Dr. O. M. Solandt, OBE, is slated for annual luncheon of Association of Professional Engineers of British Columbia, in Vancouver, December 10. MUNICIPALITIES SHOW IMPROVEMENT

Building Permits Reach Record High in October

Victoria posted an all-time dollar record for building permits last month while construction in the outlying municipalities began rising out of the doldrums.

City Hall statistics showed 5,984 building permits worth $8,850,596 were issued during the first 11 months of 1960, more than was registered in all of 1959. During the corresponding period last year there were 6,330 permits issued for a value of $7,992,935.

During November, the city issued 504 permits worth $604,406, almost double the $367,539 value covered by 665 permits issued in November, 1959.

Saanich—construction, reeling from a series of setbacks this year—began a rally with its second-best month of the year in November.

It issued 91 permits for a total of $307,674, including 38 dwellings worth $471,760, compared with 95 permits for $1,040,483, including 41 dwellings worth $511,500, in November, 1959.

So far this year, Saanich has issued 378 permits worth $6,029,424 compared with 1,095 permits worth $9,034,912 in the first 11 months of 1959.

Esquimalt also reported a pick-up in activity during November, issuing 17 permits worth $417,720 compared with 16 permits worth $224,050 a year ago. These included six dwellings worth $41,500 the previous November.

To date this year, 157 permits worth $1,035,875 have been issued compared with 202 permits valued at $1,654,099 during the corresponding period last year.

CONVICT SUES HOSPITAL

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Convict Frank Galto, 39, has sued Mercy Hospital for $250,000, charging a bullet was removed from his stomach without permission and used as evidence against him. Galto and his brother, Joseph, 41, are serving 13½ to 27-year prison terms for robbing the home of a policeman and wounding him in a gun duel.

SECOND STRAIGHT DEADLOCK

School Boot Final Sudden-Death Now

If you want to place a bet on the outcome of the Inter-High School Senior Soccer League final, you should be able to make it an even-money wager.

The playoff is as even as they come and Mount View and Victoria High are still deadlocked after struggling through two games of the best-of-three series.

They battled to a 1-1 draw in the opening game and Tuesday turned it into a sudden-death affair by playing to a 2-2 sawoff in a tension-packed second game at Vic High.

Two penalty kicks provided a 1-1 deadlock at half-time Tuesday. Ernie Leenheer sent the Vics ahead by blasting a spot kick behind goalie Larry Johnston after the Hornets were called for hands.

TRIPPING PENALTY

A tripping infraction gave Mount View's Al Boden the chance to even the count 20 seconds before the intermission.

Vic High went ahead again 10 minutes into the second half when Kees Roodbol headed a corner kick to Ranjit Dhillon who, in turn, headed the ball behind Johnston, the starry netminder who did not yield a goal as the Views completed their league schedule without a defeat.

Constant pressure finally paid off for the Hornets two minutes from time. Jim Clarke got the big goal as his shot from a scramble dribbled off a post and into the net.

Date and site of the third game has not yet been decided, but both coaches hope it will be held under lights at Royal Athletic Park next week, with as many overtime sessions as are needed to decide the title.

PARK NOT AVAILABLE

An attempt was made to obtain the use of Athletic Park before the playoff started, but the schools were informed that the park was reserved for district soccer league matches, although last week it was used by Edmonton Eskimos and for the "Little Gray Cup" juvenile football game.

Coaches Val Hynch of Mount View and Dave Price of the Vics agree that playing under lights should provide a solution to their problems.

Both the first games had to be trimmed to 60 minutes, instead of the regulation 90 minutes, and both were finished in near-darkness. Both coaches believe that with two clubs so evenly matched, it is unfair to shorten a game and to chance the winning shot being scored when goalkeepers are hampered by failing light.

Tentative date for the decider is Monday night. If Athletic Park is not available, the match will probably be played at Mount View Monday afternoon.

Westminsters Tied for Top

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—New Westminster moved into a first-place tie with Nanaimo in the Pacific Coast Amateur Hockey League with a convincing 8-3 win over the Vancouver Island club Wednesday.

Right winger Pete Eades sparked New Westminster's attack with three goals. Norm Usselman, Paul Monreau, Frank Carlson, Bob Leek and Joe Wovk scored one each for the winners.

Speedy Earl Robinson scored twice for Nanaimo with Don Smith adding a single. New Westminster outplayed the visitors all the way and peppered a total of 56 shots at rookie goalkeeper Dave Thlen. Gerry Paymant, another rookie goalie, stopped 20 shots in the New Westminster net.

All-Star Mention For B.C. Player

SEATTLE (CP)—Vancouver's Pat Claridge has been named to the Associated Press' all-West Coast second football team.

Claridge, an end with University of Washington Huskies, is a brother of Bruce Claridge of B.C. Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union. Pat is also the first Canadian to play with two consecutive Rose Bowl teams. He was with the Huskies' Rose Bowl champions last year and will be with them when they return again in January.

HONOLULU GETS SPOT IN PACIFIC CIRCUIT

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The Pacific Coast League announced Wednesday night it will operate in Honolulu in 1961.

Devey Soriano, league president, said several parties are interested in operating the franchise. He said league representatives will meet Friday at San Francisco with Chinn Ho, president of the Honolulu Stadium Corp., to complete lease arrangements.

Tentative schedules call for each Coast League team to make two trips to Honolulu.

Shaughnessy's Chair To Veteran Executive

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—Tommy Richardson, who served as president of the Eastern League for the past 26 years, Wednesday succeeded Frank Shaughnessy as president of the International League.

Richardson, 65, was signed for a one-year term at a salary of $15,000. "I feel fortunate to follow in the footsteps of a man like Mr. Shaughnessy," said Richardson. "He has helped make the International League one of the finest in the country and I shall do everything possible to keep it that way."

Shaughnessy, 77, resigned Tuesday and was voted an annual pension of $10,000 by the league directors. Richardson lives in Williamsport, Pa., but said he would move his home to one of the eight cities in the National League. He will tender his resignation to the Eastern League tonight.

Richardson explained that International League directors sought him out for the job and not he them.

Prior to Richardson's election, a Syracuse delegation made a presentation to league officials in quest of the Montreal franchise. Syracuse's chances "look generally favorable," said secretary Harry Simmons.

Once-Mighty Vs Pack Up Skates

PENTICTON, (CP)—Unemployment muscled its way into the sports scene here and caused the collapse of senior hockey.

Penticton Vs. Allan Cup champions in 1954 and world champions a year later, disbanded and left the Okanagan League with only three teams—Kelowna Packers, Kamloops Chiefs and Vernon Canadians.

The Vs. were the league's best drawing card this season, averaging about 1,000 fans a game.

Officials said the club could not continue because nine imports failed to find jobs to augment token hockey payments.

Immediate plight of the remaining teams will be decided within the next two or three days at an emergency league meeting," said Bob Gilhooley of Kelowna, OSHL president.

SAD TO SEE

"It's a sad thing to see a town like Penticton fold," he said in Kelowna. "Penticton is the valley's best sports town. The Vs. were winning their share of games and had the best attendance."

Gilhooley said both Vernon and Kamloops have intimated they will continue to operate in a three-team league.

"It depends upon the Packers now," he added. "They are pretty shaky financially, too. But if they decide to keep going with three teams we can continue. If they fold it's difficult to say what will happen."

The Vs. face an operating deficit of $2,600 and Wednesday a creditor obtained a court order against the team's bank account.

Maroons Earn Tie With Moscow Club

MOSCOW (AP)—Chatham Maroons tied Moscow's Spartak hockey team 3-3 in a hard, fast game at the Sports Palace here Wednesday. The arena was jammed with 12,000 cheering fans and hundreds waited in vain outside for tickets.

Floyd (Butch) Martin, a veteran of Olympic play, scored the tying goal for the Canadians with a hard, short shot in the 14th minute of the third period.

George Aitken, Chatham forward and alternate captain, scored in the first period and defenceman Elmer Skov notched the other in the second.

But Canadian goalie Harold (Boat) Hurley earned the biggest cheers as he held off the fast attack of the Soviet team time and again. Hurley, who like Martin has played on two Olympic teams, is fast becoming a favorite of the Russian fans.

The Canadian team now has won one game, lost two and tied one in its current Russian tour. It will play another game here and two more in Kiev.

TENNIS TEMPEST

'Ere, 'Arry, Just What Did You Say?

MELBOURNE (AP)—A long-smouldering feud between Australian Davis Cup captain Harry Hopman and former Wimbledon champion Jaroslav Drobny erupted anew today and threatened to break up the Victorian tennis championships until an official soothed Drobny's injured feelings.

A formal apology was issued by Robert Vroland, president of the Victorian Association, after Drobny who, acting as coach and manager of the Italian Davis Cup team charged Hopman in effect called him "a liar."

Drobny threatened to pull his Italian stars, Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola, out of the doubles final Saturday unless redress was made for what he called "atrocious treatment." He was calmed down after a morning-long meeting with Vroland and a three-paragraph statement which contradicted Hopman's comment.

In a syndicated column today, Hopman accused Drobny of "talking nonsense" in statements made following Pietrangeli's dramatic walkout on the match with Chuck McKinley in Tuesday's quarter-finals. Drobny complained that Victorian officials had not extended the usual courtesies such as free lunch tickets to the Italians until the Italians made a good showing in the championships.

Drobny also said Vroland had made an effort to get Pietrangeli and McKinley to continue the match the next day, but Pietrangeli declined.

Barry MacKay and Earl Buchholz Jr., battled their way today into the final, making it an all-America windup for the first time in the tournament's 80-year history.

Buchholz beat McKinley, 3-6, 5-7, 6-4, 6-1, 6-4. MacKay whipped Mike Sangster of England 6-4, 10-8, 12-10.

Continental XIs Don't Like the British Rules

LONDON (CP) — Judging by recent events on the soccer field, hostilities between Britain and Italy did not end with the 1949 armistice.

Three times in four matches, Anglo-Italian relations have been strained by incidents over rule interpretation and subsequent recriminations involving players, spectators and sports writers of the two countries.

This month Football League secretary Alan Hardaker will attempt to get a set of uniform rules passed at the general council meeting of the Federation of International Football Associations. Until these differences have been ironed out little headway is likely to be made with plans for the formation of a European league.

Dick Tiger Regains Empire Ring Title

EDMONTON (CP) — Dick Tiger of Nigeria regained his British Empire middleweight boxing championship with a technical knockout victory over Wilf Greaves of Edmonton at 1:20 of the ninth round of a scheduled 15-round bout Wednesday night. Greaves weighed 160 and Tiger 159.

Tiger, who lost the title to Greaves in a controversial decision in Edmonton last June, began rocking his opponent with lefts and rights early in the ninth and referee John Smith raised Tiger's arm after 80 seconds of the round.

A small crowd of 2,500 had little to cheer about in the early rounds as Greaves, 25, absorbed punishment from the sharper, cleaner punches by Tiger.

The 31-year-old champion, who fights out of New York but comes from Amaibo in the province of Orin in Nigeria, had Greaves helpless in the corner when referee Smith stopped the bout.

International League Cut to Seven Entries

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — The International Hockey League failed in a bid to move the defunct Milwaukee franchise to Green Bay this week and decided to operate the rest of the season with seven clubs.

Green Bay, which has applied for an IHL franchise in the 1961-62 season, voted against joining the league now mainly because of contractual problems. The Bobcats have 26 home games left with various teams in Canada and upper Michigan.

Surely Duke Didn't Use Wall Game for Pattern

By HAL R. COOPER

LONDON (AP) — They played the "Eton" wall game again Wednesday. The score was Collegers 0, Oppidans 0, and let's face it: The Duke of Wellington must have been kidding.

The wall game occurs every St. Andrew's Day, and has for hundreds of years. The last time a goal was scored was in 1909.

The old Iron Duke is said to have stated that the Battle of Waterloo was won on the playing fields of Eton.

If they had patterned that historic battle in 1815 after the wall game, the forces of England and France still would be locked in mortal combat.

The wall game involves two teams of 11 youths each. The playing field is a strip of ground running along one of the school walls. In order to score, a ball first has to be nudged along the wall with the feet into one of two areas known as "good calx" and "bad calx."

The side having reached a calx is then entitled to a "shy" which you don't really want to go on with this, do you?

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan played for the Collegers in 1909. He failed to score, but has done all right since.

LOCAL BRIEFS

W. A. Scott, who once contested his right to run for mayor in court and lately has become the chief attraction at the new Speaker's Corner in Beacon Hill Park, Tuesday offered to serve as a substitute alderman if Ald. Arthur Dowell is re-elected Dec. 8. Noting that Ald. Dowell planned to take an extended trip, he said he would be glad to take his place during the period without pay. At City Hall, amused observers said there was little likelihood the offer could or would be accepted.

The Victoria RCAF Squadron No. 4455, AC&W (Auxiliary), is lending full support to a plan to re-activate 801 Wing, RCAF Association, and a meeting will be held at 8.30 tonight in station headquarters, 1212 Quadra Street.

All former RCAF members are invited to attend. It is expected that nearly all present members of No. 2455 Squadron, due to disband next March, will join the association.

Winners of Victoria Duplicate Bridge Club's weekly tournament Tuesday were: Section 1: First, Leslie Stewart and Otto Leese; second, Elizabeth Warren and Anthony Marsh; third, Dora Duprau and Molly Collins. Section 2: First, Samuel Duprau and Joseph Lukes; second, Mr. and Mrs. A. Jorgensen; third, Eric Goodwin and James Duprau and Pat Bishop and Lillian Goodwin.

'Sell Canada's Winters As Warm, Colorful'

OTTAWA (CP) — Delegates to the federal-provincial tourist conference have been told they must sell this country's long, cold winter as being a warm and colorful thing if they expect to thaw the reluctance of foreign visitors.

Wilfrid E. Organ, director of Manitoba's Travel Bureau, said Tuesday the way to bring about the transformation is to use a better advertising approach.

Among his tourist-winning suggestions were:

No Garbage Service

BONN (AP) — Residents at the plush U.S. embassy housing project here must now carry out their garbage themselves. They received letters from the embassy saying the measure is necessary because many superintendents were discharged as part of President Eisenhower's economy campaign.

THREE DIE AS WINTER STORM HITS ONTARIO

By The Canadian Press

combine with an American campaign to draw tourists. Unless Canada started a campaign of its own, these visitors would spend most of their money below the border.

Rex Grose, Manitoba's deputy minister of industry and commerce, said many of the tourist operators are not using proper accounting procedures and that these would make them ineligible for government-guaranteed loans to improve and expand their premises.

Dockyard Open To Relatives For Homecoming

Relatives and friends of sailors in three destroyer escorts returning from a Pacific cruise Friday will be permitted to enter HMC Dockyard when the ships return, the navy announced today.

HMC Ships Assiniboine, Fraser, and Skeena, will dock at Jetty A at 10.30 a.m. Customs officials will meet the ships near Race Rocks, and hope to have them cleared so visitors can go aboard as soon as they dock.

Entrance to Dockyard is through the main gate, Esquimalt Road. Parking facilities in the Dockyard are extremely limited.

Hopes are high in Saanich today that the proposed Cadboro Bay-Sheboyne sewer system may cost an even $1,000,000—a drop of $200,000 as the result of new federal legislation to aid municipalities.

The $200,000 saving was mentioned by Reeve George Chatterton at a Cadboro Bay Ratepayers' Association meeting called Tuesday to discuss the $1,200,000 sewer bylaw.

The bylaw will be submitted to ratepayers in the sewer district on Dec. 8.

The reeve told a packed meeting he thinks the federal government will make a direct loan to the municipality of two-thirds the cost of the system's trunks and plant, amounting to about $465,000.

He said he expected a reduced interest rate on the loan. "This means a considerable saving," he said. "A drop of ½ of one per cent means a saving of about $2.50 per annum per ratepayer."

25 PER CENT

In addition, the reeve said, if the work was completed by March 31, 1963, the federal government would absorb 25 per cent of the loan and 25 per cent of the accrued interest on the loan up to the date of completion.

Further assistance would be available under the federal winter works program, he said.

Municipal engineer Neville Life said the federal municipal aid program could mean a considerable drop in construction costs.

"Under the winter works program alone we may save as much as $50,000," he said. "That is assuming that winter works assistance is available until 1963."

"I have no doubt that cost of installing a sewer system will be considerably higher if the project is delayed for another year or more," he said.

"Apart from rising costs of materials and labor, federal assistance may not be available in another year or so."

$80 FEE

Ratepayers questioned the cost of connecting the sewer to the property. This has been set at $80 if the work is done at the time of sewer construction, and $115 if done later.

Mr. Life said it is based on present cost of connecting sewers in the Gorge area.

Some ratepayers are concerned over the danger of pollution of beaches from sewer effluent.

Mr. Life said he is satisfied from tests conducted that there would be no danger of pollution.

Reeve Chatterton said cost to ratepayers would be reduced as more properties are subdivided in the proposed sewer area.

New Sign Bylaw Approved By City Sign Companies

Victoria sign companies are in general agreement with the new city bylaw restricting types and sizes of commercial signs in the downtown area, W. T. Fraser said today.

The bylaw has received three readings by city council and will become law if it is approved at final reading early next month.

"Generally speaking we regard it as a progressive piece of legislation," said Mr. Fraser, who is manager for Neon Products of Canada Ltd. in Victoria.

Mr. Fraser said he had discussed the bylaw with all sign companies in Victoria and they were in general agreement with the draft as amended.

TOO RESTRICTIVE

"We opposed the original draft because it was so restrictive it would almost have put the sign companies out of business — and we employ about 100 persons between us."

"We therefore proposed a number of amendments and some of these have been incorporated in the by-law as it stands now."

"In fact, we started as early as 1954 to promote changes in the existing sign bylaw because it was antiquated."

The new bylaw, if approved, will prohibit projecting signs, billboards and other rooftop signs in the downtown area.

"We do not see any objection to rooftop signs," Mr. Fraser said, "but we have agreed to go along with this restriction."

He noted two important relaxations in the final draft:

1. Facia signs (non-projecting) in the downtown area may be unlimited in size.

2. Canopy signs may be enlarged slightly.

But all types of sign except facias in the downtown area will be reduced in size.

More than one-third of poster panels, or billboards, in the city will be eliminated. These will include a large advertisement for the B.C. government ferries.

Billboards in the residential area east of Cook Street will be eliminated. They will also be banned in the vicinity of Christ Church Cathedral and the new law courts.

Exempted from this restriction are temporary signs put up by builders and contractors such as now appear on the site of the new law courts.

The revolving clock outside the Bank of Montreal at Yates and Douglas will become a stationary wall clock if the new bylaw goes through.

"City merchants will have eight years in which to make the necessary adjustments," Mr. Fraser said, "but in our estimation most of the alterations will be made during the next two years."

Mayor Percy Scourrah said he would obtain the information for Ald. McEwen.

Ald. Elmer McEwen Wednesday asked for a written opinion by city solicitors on legality of the city's proposed sign bylaw.

The bylaw, which comes up for final passage next month, includes a provision banning all non-conforming signs within eight years. Ald. McEwen said he did not believe the city had the power to set such a deadline.

ARCHBISHOP MEETS POPE FRIDAY

First Talks in 400 Years

ROME (AP) — The Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Francis Fisher, arrived in Rome today for a historic meeting with Pope John XXIII.

The supreme ruler of the Roman Catholic Church and the primate of the Church of England will meet Friday at the Vatican — the first such meeting in more than 400 years.

The archbishop described his meeting with Pope John as "quite an unspectacular event" but one that is also historic.

The archbishop flew here from Istanbul, where he met the patriarch of the Orthodox Church.

Before that he had a similar meeting with the patriarch of the Orthodox Church at Jerusalem.

The meeting with Pope John, which has brought some criticism in England but generally has been looked upon with favor, has been described by both the Vatican and the archbishop's London headquarters as a "courageous visit."

It has raised hopes, at least unofficially, that it will serve at least as a step towards the eventual unity of Christians throughout the world.

CHINESE PAID $2,250 TO BRING IN NEPHEW

MONTREAL (CP) — Woo Ting, an east-end laundry man, testified Wednesday he paid a local Chinese merchant $2,250 to arrange for the admission of his nephew, Tsang Gay Pan, into Canada.

He testified at preliminary hearing of Henry G. Chan, charged with procuring a forgery of an immigration paper and inducing another man to use it.

Woo Ting said his nephew entered the country under a false name on the application of a "paper father," a dishwasher employed by the accused.

Tsang Gay Pan testified his real father died 10 years ago.

Further hearing in the case was deferred to Dec. 15.

Mass Search Planned For Missing Coed

PORTLAND (CP) — A mass search of the hills northwest of here will be made Saturday if no trace is found of Beverly Ann Allan, 19, Washington State University sophomore.

The girl has been missing since she went on a Saturday night date with Larry Ralph Peyton, 19, Portland State College student, whose battered body was found in a lover's lane in the hills Sunday.

About 200 men will take part in the search. Fifty will be on horseback. The Marine Corps Reserve offered up to 100 men.

Helicopters were used in the search Wednesday, but no trace was found of the girl.

IN QUEBEC

Premiers Open Meeting

QUEBEC (CP)—Provincial premiers and representatives opened talks today on the possibility of setting up permanent machinery for inter-provincial co-operation on a national scale.

Premier Lesage of Quebec, who initiated the inter-provincial conference, greeted the premiers from six provinces and delegates from two other provinces as they arrived at the legislature buildings. Premier Frost of Ontario was chosen as chairman.

OPTIMISM PREVAILS

A general atmosphere of optimism over the idea of regular meetings in the future prevailed as provincial delegates talked to reporters. But most were non-committal on the question of a permanent council of the provincial governments.

Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland said provincial talks cannot be a substitute for a federal-provincial conference. "We must not try to be a rival. As for Newfoundland we are here to listen to what the others have to say. I think the conference has good prospects of success."

Premier Bennett of British Columbia said: "I want the provinces to come closer together. I think it's necessary. In fact the only reason we are coming to this conference is that we want to do everything to build Canadian unity."

The closed conference, first since Confederation to bring together representatives of all provincial governments to discuss general provincial issues, has aroused interest from provincial governments.

All, without exception, said it must be made clear that there can be no question of the provinces "ganging up" on the federal government. Prime Minister Diefenbaker declined an invitation to the conference but sent an observer.

NO BOGGING

Provincial representatives said they had an open mind about the proposal by Premier Lesage for establishment of a permanent council of provincial governments and the organization of a secretariat. But Mr. Bennett said he does not want to see "our relations with the sister provinces bogged down in officialdom, red tape and written pacts."

... STRIKE BAN

Starr forecast an enormous increase in unemployment—some 111,000 striking railwaymen, another 60,000 railworkers out of work because of a shutdown of the CPR, CNR and four other smaller railways, plus more than 140,000 other workers dependent on rail business.

Mr. Starr said Wednesday legislation to postpone the strike is "the only possible action that can be taken at this time to avert a calamity of nation-wide proportions."

Liberal Leader Pearson moved a technical amendment to block second reading of the legislation on the grounds it imposes a "compulsory and discriminatory wage freeze" on the workers involved.

A vote on the Liberal amendment was expected some time late today.

ACTION DEFENDED

Prime Minister Diefenbaker defended the government action. He said it will not prejudice either the unions or the railways. In trying to stall the strike, the government was preserving its "complete neutrality."

By heading off a strike until after May 15, the government hopes to be able to act on a report from the MacPherson royal commission on transportation and give new life to the ailing railways.

It will also have lifted its ban on further freight rate increases, thus freeing the railways to go after more money to meet any final wage settlement.

Both Mr. Pearson and Mr. Fisher contended the government is destroying the normal processes of industrial disputes law—bargaining, conciliation and mediation followed by strike action if other methods fail.

The Liberals said they would have imposed a settlement based on the 14-cent hourly pay increase recommended by the federal conciliation board.

A last-minute compromise offer from the railways, involving a pay increase this year of less than two cents an hour, was turned down by the negotiation team headed by Frank H. Hall of Montreal.

SOLARIUM 'CANTEEN' CONTINUES

Mobile canteen operations of the Solarium Junior League will be extended to include the coming Sunday at Goldstream Park.

A league spokesman said the decision was made because salmon are now "running madly" up the stream, and people might like to combine the scene with canteen function.

The canteen was to have ended its Sunday work last Sunday.

ACTION LAUNCHED ON SEWER LINE

Saanich Sued in Contempt

A motion for contempt of court against the corporation of Saanich has been filed in B.C. Supreme Court here.

It moves that the corporation of Saanich be found in contempt of court through its failure to comply with the judgment of Mr. Justice Rutan on March 30, 1960, and to be punished accordingly.

The case will be heard in Supreme Court here on Jan. 4 next at 10:30 a.m.

Mr. Justice Rutan ruled last Spring that the corporation must shut off or remove a sewer line running through the property of Warren E. Dennis of 3517 Lorraine. It was constructed by the corporation three years ago. He held that Mr. Dennis owned the sewer line and gave the corporation until Oct. 19 to shut off the line or remove it.

Atlas Rocket Fails

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—An 82-foot Atlas missile fell more than 4,000 miles short of its goal in the Atlantic test range Tuesday night when its rocket engines misfired. It was the second failure in the last two Atlas flights.

By that date nothing had been done by the corporation and since Oct. 19 the corporation has instituted expropriation proceedings to acquire the land.

This action is deemed a further contempt in the motion filed on behalf of Mr. Dennis by counsel Gerald Lauder.

The judgment of Mr. Justice Rutan was that Saanich corporation be "perpetually restrained from trespassing, using, allowing or permitting any sewage, effluent or any other liquid or substance to pass through the property."

1,000 PUPILS LIKE RUSSIAN

VANCOUVER (CP)—More students are learning the Russian language at the University of British Columbia than at any other university in North America, Dr. J. O. Sobell, head of the Slavonic studies department, said Tuesday. He said 1,000 students are studying Russian.

"Interest in the Russian language and the related field of Slavonic studies is growing every year," he said in an interview.

"It is a recognition of the basic need for more knowledge of the Russian people. One way to achieve this is to know their language."

REEVE OPENS NEW SCHOOL

'Major Resource' Well Worth Cost

Saanich Reeve George Chatterton officially opened the new Gordon Head Junior High School and told some 400 parents at the ceremony that education is the nation's major resource.

Reeve Chatterton said the $385,000 building was only "adequate" and without frills. Controversy over school financing and curriculum was healthy, he said, "but on one point there should be no controversy—that is on the value of education."

Greater Victoria school board chairman W. C. Gelling said the school's construction cost of $11.15 per square foot compared favorably with costs of building a home.

Principal J. W. Downard told the audience that the stage of the auditorium already is in use as a classroom with a sliding partition blocking off the proscenium arch during instruction periods.

With the growth of cities and towns, only one in eight persons in the United States now lives on a farm.

UNFAIR U.S. COMPETITION

'Lot of Rubbish' Says Publisher

HALIFAX (CP) — The a representative of Time magazine during a recent hearing in Ottawa.

"I was there," he said. "I heard you, and I think if I had been in his place I would have walked out of the room."

Mr. Wardell said competition is the life of trade, including the publishing business. There had been no more failures in Canadian publishing than among British or U.S. magazines.

He said postal regulations should be changed to prevent misuse of Canadian mails by U.S. magazines paying very cheap postage rates.

"But there can be no possible justification for a general assault upon American magazines, which would be nothing short of an assault upon freedom of the press, and would set a precedent that should be combatted at all cost."

"I don't think our Canadian magazines are going to die. They are flourishing in circulation and advertising."

"If you were in danger of having your magazine put out of business by competition, what would you do?" Mr. O'Leary asked.

"I would try to make it a better magazine," Mr. Wardell replied.

Mr. Wardell accused commission members of insulting

NEW 'FERRY PRINCESS'

Downtown Victoria to downtown Vancouver transportation link vacated by CPR Princess ships may once again be available, this time with vertical lift aircraft. Okanagan Helicopters has announced plans to raise $3,000,000 to purchase three 'choppers, possibly like Boeing Vertol 107 pictured above, which could provide a 40-minute inter-city service.

ALSO BEING considered for the service, which may start as early as next year, is the Sikorsky S-61. Both craft carry from 25 to 28 passengers, are fully instrumented, classed as all-weather craft.

Mayor on Foray For Parking Aid

Ottawa Will Hear Off-Street Plans

Mayor Percy Scurrah will lead a delegation to Ottawa seeking federal financial assistance in developing an off-street parking facility, it was decided today.

An informal meeting of all aldermen voted to send the mayor in an effort to cut through red tape they feared might ensnare their proposal.

The specific proposal was not revealed.

ALREADY DISCUSSED

"The last time the mayor was in Ottawa for the meeting of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, he discussed with federal Public Works Minister David Walker the question of federal assistance for civic off-street parking facilities.

"Since then, he has had encouraging correspondence and the mayor will go to Ottawa in an attempt to finalize the discussion."

It was understood that the Downtown Businessmen's Association, and possibly other organizations, would send representatives to fill out the delegation.

The mayor is expected to go as soon as appointments with government officials are arranged.

PRINCESS' DEPARTURE DELAYED

The former CPR steamer, Princess Joan, will move from the Belleville Street dock to Government Dock, Esquimalt, at 7 a.m. Friday, to have the bottom cleaned prior to leaving for her new home port of Piraeus, Greece.

Sister ship Princess Elizabeth will be given the same treatment next week.

Wireless equipment of ocean-going standard is being installed in both ships. New owners had originally hoped the ships would leave this week, but it will be at least another week before they are ready.

The ships were sold to Greek interests after their Canadian steamship certificates expired.

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1960—PAGE 21

... HERE AND THERE ...

With NORMAN CRIBBENS

A member of the B.C. Legislature laughed when I told him I didn't like public speaking because I was afraid of "boring people."

"What a good thing you're not a politician," he said. Yet, come to think of it, some of our legislators might be less boring if they were afraid of being boring. The speech that seems to have no ending and doesn't seem to be getting anywhere is a great trial to the listener.

"Tell your friend if he continues parking by the fire hydrant at Discovery and Government Streets he is liable to be fined $20," said a member of Victoria fire brigade.

I had told, in this column, of the man who regularly parks beside this hydrant because he said it was an old seawater pump no longer used by the brigade.

Not so. This is a high-pressure hydrant and the one on the opposite corner is a low-pressure hydrant. There are old seawater pumps in Victoria but this isn't one of them.

Mrs. Jean Stuart Clark of 4036 Quadra is disappointed that no one remembers the old-time loggers' songs which used to be sung around the fires in logging-camp bunkhouses.

"Is no one interested in rescuing these old songs before the ox and horse-team drivers have passed on?" she writes.

"There are many, some living in rest homes and private hospitals, who remember the old ditties," Mrs. Clark recalls the start of one of them, which went:

Beans, bacon and flapjacks
Flapjacks, bacon and beans.

Tug Rescues Fishpacker In Distress

A Victoria tug won a tough-and-go battle to save a Vancouver fishpacker in stormy seas near Trial Island Wednesday.

The 70-foot packer Kaare, owned by Kaare Fishing Co., Vancouver, and loaded with herring from the West Coast, got into trouble when cargo shifted in the after hold, carrying away a bulkhead.

Although her bilges remained dry, the packer's pumps could not contain the water in the after hold, and the Kaare settled at the stern until her after deck was awash.

A message was sent to search and rescue co-ordination centre at Vancouver, which asked the B.C. pilotage station to take charge. The Island Tug and Barge Co.'s tug Island Booster was sent to the scene, with veteran diver Jack Daley to supervise.

HOLD PUMPED

The pilotage launch B.C. Pilot No. 1 also went to the scene to stand by in case the crew needed to be taken off.

The packer was manoeuvred into the lee of Trial Island, where Daley rigged a pump in the flooded hold. The diver had to go down into the hold to keep the pump clear of herring.

Pumping operations, which started about 4 p.m., were concluded by 9, and the packer was escorted into the Inner Harbor. She was able to leave for Vancouver this morning under her own power.

NEW TUG TO 'GROW' BY HULL ON WAY HERE

Island Tug and Barge Ltd.'s new tug Island Mariner will actually be a tug and a half when she reaches here from England in January.

At the end of her towline will be the bare steel hull of another tug—a 97-footer which will be engine and fitted out in Victoria for service on the west coast.

The hull was built at Sorel, Quebec, commissioned by Island Tug with the assistance of its eastern associates, McAllister Towing Co. Ltd., Montreal.

McAllister moved the hull down from Sorel to New York, where it is to be picked up by Island Mariner, now finishing the Atlantic crossing.

Both tugs will be used in coastwise towing.

Youth Freed In Car Spree, Another Held

One of two youths found lying in a creek bed and charged with taking a car without the owner's consent early Wednesday was dismissed today in city police court.

Douglas Steadman had pleaded guilty with David Russell when they appeared Wednesday, but prosecutor J. P. O'Grady suggested to the court today Steadman may wish to plead not guilty, which he did.

Mr. O'Grady said he examined the circumstances and was certain that had Steadman been represented by counsel he would not have pleaded guilty in the first place.

The prosecutor offered no evidence against Steadman.

REPORT AWAITED

Russell, 22, of 1411 Mitchell, was remanded to Wednesday for probation report and sentence.

Colwood RCMP constable Fabian Pavelick told the court he spotted a 1960 model car pass his patrol car near Thetis Lake overpass shortly after midnight. He made a U-turn to follow it and check three youths in it, he said.

Coming around a bend near Parsons Bridge he saw the empty car, engine off, a door open headlights burning, rolling backwards in the middle of the highway.

When the bush area nearby was searched Russell and Steadman with a juvenile girl were found hiding in the creek.

A check with city police showed the car had been taken from Morrison Chevrolet Oldsmobile Ltd., 909 Yates, at about 10:30 p.m. Russell said he picked up Steadman and the girl later.

FRIDAY MEETINGS

Victoria Lions Club: Noon, Empress Hotel. "What I Admire in Communism," by Rev. Dr. S. Parsons.

Civic Art Centre Brief Presented

A brief, setting forth tentative plans for development of the Royal Theatre and adjacent area as a civic auditorium and arts centre, was presented Wednesday night to a meeting of Victoria Symphony Society board members and representatives of various city cultural organizations.

The meeting, which took place at the Lansdowne Road home of Symphony president Jack Barraclough, was shown slides of the proposed development involving the new court-house, Christ Church Cathedral and the Royal Theatre.

Showing of the slides was accompanied by explanatory comments by Capital City Planning Commission's Brahms Wiesman and city architect Rodney Clark.

Mr. Barraclough pointed out that the city's unique character together with growth of the university here strongly indicated the desirability of developing a centre having broad facilities for crafts, music, theatre and other entertainment.

WOULD COST LESS

Purchase of the Royal Theatre, alterations and erection of ancillary buildings would cost considerably less than construction of a new auditorium, he stated.

As a necessary first step it was decided to forward a resolution to provincial and city governments asking that immediate steps be taken to acquire control of property in the vicinity of the Royal, the courthouse and the cathedral.

A committee consisting of Mr. Barraclough, R. T. McKean, Mrs. Audrey Johnson and T. E. Watkins was named to follow up presentation of the resolution.

Oak Bay Cancels Stewardship Meet

Oak Bay council for the first time in a half century will not hold a "report to taxpayers" meeting prior to civic elections.

In past years council members reported on committee work and the reeve presented the overall municipal situation to the public.

The meet was generally held a week before elections.

Scholarship Will Honor Late Professor Savannah

A memorial to the late Edward J. Savannah will take the form of a perpetual scholarship for a third year student at Victoria College continuing work in chemistry or allied science in the fourth year.

Decision to honor the memory of the professor in that way was reached at a meeting of his friends and colleagues at the College Wednesday night.

UP TO COMMUNITY, SAYS GOVERNMENT

Pay Runs Out for Carvers Again

It is up to the local community to help keep totem carver Mungo Marlin going through the winter, Education Minister Leslie Peterson said today.

Mungo and Henry Hunt, who work in Thunderbird Park here have received notice that their pay stops Dec. 31.

Mr. Peterson said the Education Department budgeted $7,500 for Thunderbird Park this year, the same amount it has spent each year since 1956.

MORE REQUESTED

He would not say if the new budget will increase the amount, but it was learned that a request for more was made in preliminary departmental estimates.

"I would think the community would come forward with something," said Mr. Peterson.

The province supported the project "because it is a very good thing for Victoria and the tourist business."

The government does not feel it is entirely responsible to keep the carvers going.

Mr. Peterson suggested that either some orders be found for the carvers or some other form of assistance provided by the local area.

A similar situation occurred in 1956, and was one of the reasons for the Victoria Times

"World's Tallest Totem" project. The carvers were faced with a cessation of income, and the newspaper appealed to the community to raise funds to carve the giant totem that now stands in Beacon Hill Park.

BCE Rate Formula Abolished by PUC

B.C. Electric Co. rates will get a closer look from the Public Utilities Commission in the future.

The PUC today abolished the formula upon which it based its approval of BCE rates and said it will pay close attention to its role as a public watchdog in the future.

The decision does not affect current BCE transit, gas or electricity rates, but will apply to the next application by the company for a change.

BCE President A. E. Grauer told the Times the company is not planning any immediate request for a rate boost.

COURT RULING

The PUC decision follows a Supreme Court of Canada ruling that BCE has a right to increase rates at will within a margin of profit not exceeding 6.5 per cent of its depreciated appraised value.

This figure was set by the PUC in 1952.

The PUC now says, in effect, that as it has no control over the rates within that amount, the public could pay the maximum amount for the minimum of service.

A statement by the PUC says future rate applications will be reviewed with these factors in mind:

1. To protect the public from excessive rates and ensure good service;

2. To give the BCE a fair and reasonable return on its operation and service.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Please tell me what establishment is now located at the site where the Empress Theatre once was.—J. V.

A. It's a parking lot. Address at one time was 1311 Government.

Q. What does a "suite" in music mean?—R. R.

A. It is a group of dance tunes with four main movements—thus the term suite. The pieces, generally with a related theme, encompass variations from a slow, stately dance (sarabande) to the quick jig. Longer musical suites are often introduced with preludes.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealer.

Saanich court is normally held at 2 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Special trial time will be Friday, Dec. 9 at 3 p.m.

Flying Swans From Denmark Make Excellent Presents

By PENNY SAVER

Are you gift-hunting for a friend who seems to have everything she needs? If so, why not get her one of the popular mobiles that are imported from Denmark by one downtown store? Frames of these consist of slender brass rods from each of which is suspended a graceful white flying swan. There's a bird for each of the five Scandinavian countries. Mobile is perfectly balanced and will add poetry of motion to any room's decor. This unusual gift sells at $1.95.

Good stationery is always a much-appreciated gift item. For friends who live in Victoria and for those who know it only through your letters and descriptions, I'd suggest boxes of note paper I saw this week.

Two Victoria women have teamed up to make these notes which come in a variety of colors in a matt finish and each note is silk-screened by hand. There's an assortment of eight Victoria scenes in each box. Included in the selection is a scene of the Parliament Buildings, outlined in lights; famous cluster lights with flower baskets, scenes from Beacon Hill Park, seagulls and, of course, dogwood. Boxes are priced at $1.

Another box containing eight notes and envelopes, that sells at the same price keeps exclusively to the dogwood design.

Good crystal is a gift that would be welcomed by every homemaker. Some of the most attractive I've seen is lead crystal from England that has vibrant colors encased within layers of the clear crystal. Colors include ruby, green, amber and midnight blue.

Heavy circular ashtrays that measure four inches in diameter are well worth the $3.50 that's on the price tag. Larger ashtrays, measuring six inches in diameter, are priced at $6.75. Also available are three-inch-square ashtrays in either clear or midnight blue crystal. These sell for $4.95.

If you would like to know where Penny shopped today give her a ring at EV 2-3131.

DEAR ABBY

Stack the Deck!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Have you any advice for a man who is married to a woman who spends every afternoon (and half her evenings) playing poker? We have been married for two years and I am getting tired of it.

POKER WIDOWER
DEAR POKER WIDOWER: Deal her a full house!

DEAR ABBY: I answered the phone last night and a man on the other end said, "Ask Rudy to call Hazel in half an hour." My husband's name is Rudy, so like a fool I gave him the message.

He wouldn't use the phone at home. He left and called her. When he came back I asked who Hazel was. He didn't even answer me.

That night I heard him say in his sleep, "But you're another man's wife and what are we going to do about the kids?"

Do you think there is another woman in the picture? We've been married 12 years, have five kids and I thought we were happy. How can you get the truth out of a man who refuses to talk?

RUDY'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: The truth is apparent. Why attempt to beat a confession out of him? Don't tackle this without professional help.

DEAR ABBY: Do you think our mother is being fair to us kids? She hasn't let our father in the house for four months all over a phone call she got from a person she doesn't even know saying our father had a girlfriend. They have been married 21 years, Abby, and Daddy never stayed out late or did anything wrong. She hasn't any real proof. How can she do such a thing to us?

FATHERLESS

DEAR FATHERLESS: If your mother has locked your father out of the house with or without — proof of his wrongdoing, she is being unfair to herself and to you children. Parents owe themselves and their children a harmonious home. This can be achieved only by airing all differences, discussing them and resolving them. No matter how guilty your father might be — your mother shares the blame.

DEAR ABBY: Why do people go into a theatre to neck? Don't they know that a theatre is a public place for watching a movie — not a park bench? I am an usher in a theatre and I know what I'm talking about. A couple comes in supposedly to see a show and they sit there all evening in a clinch, kissing like a cow pulling her foot out of a mud hole. If they want to neck, let them stay home.

USHER

If you want a personal reply from Abby, write to her in care of this paper. She answers ALL letters.

Tensions Dogging You? S-t-r-e-t-c-h and Relax

Just a few weeks ago I gave each vertebrae as it straightens you slimming exercises for the waist, hips and abdomen, the three spots where excess weight harasses us most. Today I am going to give you some exercises which will relax you.

Stretching is extremely refreshing when tension is dogging you. Stand with your arms raised overhead. Lower your head, back slightly and stretch up toward the ceiling with your arms. Bend slightly, or sway, from left to right, still stretching upward. You will feel the pull all the way down your torso. This should be done slowly in a lazy, stretchy manner. Relax and continue.

Now point your left toe as far out to the left as you can (toe touching floor), stretching your left leg. At the same time raise your right arm sideward upward until you feel the pull down the right side. Hold while you count to five. Return to starting position. This time point your right toe to the side and raise your left arm sideward upward until you feel the stretch down the left side of your body. Hold while you count to five. Continue a few times, alternating.

Now try this one. Kneel on both knees. Bend at the waist and touch the fingertips to the floor as far out in front of you as comfortable. Drag the fingertips along the floor and then up your body as you slowly straighten your spine. Arms continue on to the overhead position. Do this so slowly that you seem to feel comfortable. Raise the head and touch the chest with the chin. Continue, slowly.

These four exercises are guaranteed to banish tension and make you feel relaxed. Try them at the end of some tiring day, or even better, during the day before you become so weary.

Dinner Table Conversation Can Make Or Mar the Day

By Elizabeth Forbes

I heard of a neat idea recently, that's guaranteed to keep peace and quiet at a dinner table during these days of stress and strain before the Christmas season.

It's a true story and it has to do with a Victoria family—husband, wife and teenage son.

Husband had been coming home dog-tired from his day's work; son was turning up from first-year college a bit frustrated in trying to keep his studies and his social life running smoothly. Result—the wife, also more than a little fed-up with her day's work. Still had to smile and make bright conversation to keep the dinner hour from completely bogging down into stony silence.

This is the sort of thing that happens in many families, not only at the Christmas season but all year round.

I wonder how many of them take time to look at the picture objectively—as this family did—and try to come up with a solution to the situation.

They talked it over—mother, father and son—and they faced the fact that the dinner hour, instead of being a relaxed interlude, was becoming merely a climax to all the frustrations and disappointments of the day.

This Family Worked At It

Finally they hit on an idea that they hoped would change the picture completely.

It would be the duty of each one in turn to plan a dinner hour program; think of an interesting subject of conversation, completely devoid of frustrations, and be able to keep the ball rolling throughout the sitting.

With three in the family it meant each one took a turn every third night.

First week, it was quite a struggle, but they all had good senses of humor and by the end of the sixth day, it began to take on the outlines of an interesting game.

Father told of a couple of visitors he had met in the course of his business day; son described a chemistry lesson where he had learned to make a strange liquid with a stranger name; mother spoke of a lecture she had attended on French Canada.

In each case the subject was littling enough to carry over the dinner hour and into the washing up period.

Now—at the end of a two-week trial—the menfolk in this family cannot get to the dinner table fast enough. And all three are beginning to look forward to the table talk as the most satisfying part of their day.

So satisfying—they plan to keep the idea going round the calendar.

"You've no idea what it's doing to us," the mother of the family says. "Why we even take time to get out reference books to decide a point in question. And, what's more surprising, our food tastes better when we have something interesting to talk about during the meal."

"So much better that the other night, my husband even took time out from a keen argument with our son to tell me that I certainly was a good cook."

Colorful Festival Draws Crowds; Prizes Presented

Prizes were presented to winners in the Festival of Christmas Decorations in the Empress Hotel, Wednesday evening, by Mrs. George R. Pearkes, wife of the Lieutenant-Governor. The festival was sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary to the Family and Children's Service. A sum of $1,000 was realized.

Rose bowls and individual prizes were given to Mrs. E. Hooson for her miniature tree in cash; Mrs. H. Barber for a Christmas tree door panel; Mrs. J. Johnston for her novelty entry of a large wreath held by three gnomes; and Mrs. W. Harrison for her blue gift-wrapped box touched with tiny silver grass spray.

Second prizes in these classes went to Mrs. Johnston, white tree; Mrs. F. Drummond, frosted cones and red ribbon bow; Z. Nu Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi for a table with pine cones, gold leaves and gold candle; Mrs. A. D. Whillans, gumdrop tree on small table; Mrs. H. D. Middleton, white poinsettias and greenery on mantel; Mrs. P. M. Young, madonna with silver leaves; and Mrs. J. Scott, gift box wrapped like man's shirt.

Judged best in the student's display was a Christmas card with ceramic figures inside, entered by Gail McDiarmid and Karen Dickson, Oak Bay High School. Others judged winners were as follows: Table

OLD WOMAN IN SHOE

Popular vote in student's classes was as follows: Table centre, Susan Price and Heather Brown, Central Jr. High, old woman in a shoe; second, Vicky Francotte, Barbara Pimm, Beverley Clark and Jackie Head of the same school, silver spool candle holder. Paris Introduced at Two Gourmet Dinners

A French "legionnaire" was on guard outside the ward room in HMCS Naden when officers of the Pacific Coast Command and their wives attended the first of a series of Gourmet evenings, arranged by the Gourmet Committee of the wardroom. Evening, which brought Paris to the Esquimalt naval base, was conveyed by Lt. Cmdr. H. H. W. Plant. Reservations were so heavy that the French dinner was repeated the next evening and a total of 270 guests attended.

A LA FRANÇAISE

Dubonnet and white sauterie were served with the menu which began with Creme Vichy Soisse, followed by Poulet Marengo (chicken roasted in wine and garlic), pommes de terre Duchesse and petits pois au sucre. Colorful Jardinares, "side salads, completed main course. Mousse au chocolat was served as dessert.

Diners ate at individual tables that were covered in green and white chequered cloths and centred with candles in colorful wine bottles. Wardroom stewards wore short white jackets. French influence was seen in brilliant ties that completed their dress. Other officials were in dinner jackets or tails.

Two attractive French misses, dressed in the style of the demi-monde, went from table to table, distributing boulognes, and Geoffrey Venables serenaded diners with his Violin.

Ported ferns and chrysanthemums decorated the "sidewalk cafes" that formed wardroom decor. There were red and white striped awnings over each door and white picket fences separated plants from round tables, covered in either red and white or green and white chequered cloths that bordered the "sidewalks". After dinner, guests retired to the lower wardroom where they danced to flame light from a fire in the massive fireplace.

Next of the Gourmet series, planned for January, will be in a Spanish theme.

Mac's Agonizing Fear

(Bruce Hutchison, Editor of the Times, returned last week from a six-week fact-finding visit to the United Kingdom and Europe. Today he continues a series of articles on the effect that trade and economic policies now in the making there will have on Canada.)

Lounging carelessly in the British House of Commons, Prime Minister Macmillan wears an aura of mastery easy to sense but difficult to define—a sort of pale, relaxed, almost tired air which charms everybody and fools nobody.

Parliament and people have learned that the unruffled manner and colloquial idiom hide the toughest mind in Western statesmanship. The loose scabbard carries a blade of sharpest steel. The great leader is also a great actor, as he needs to be.

Hence any Canadian who tries to foresee this country's future in a North Atlantic region now entering a time of heavy strain must take account of Mr. Macmillan as more than Britain's unchallenged master.

He is himself a primary fact of world power—and this despite the contradictory fact that Britain is no longer one of the great powers.

'Wearable Gap'

Hence, too, Mr. Macmillan's real attitude toward the present economic division of Europe, which involves grave dangers for Canada, must be a major concern of Canadian government. That attitude was suddenly and nakedly revealed last April, in a rare moment of candor and agony, when the prime minister uncoiled himself from the treasury benches to say:

"What I have pleaded for—and I pray that I have said it strongly because I feel it so deeply—is that we should not allow any economic gap, a sort of division, to grow up which, gradually, I do not say in the short run but in the long run, as all history has proved, will make another division of Europe."

"We have seen over and over again how fatal this is; in my own lifetime I have seen it twice. It is not the particular groupings of the powers, but a division, and I have made the plea, and I make the plea again, that somehow or other, we should, in the next period, try to make that gap so small that it is wearable and does not have these effects."

Those are somewhat disordered words, torn from the heart. They lack Churchill's organized argument and flashing phrase. But they show, by their spontaneity and unrehearsed passion, how the mind of the prime minister and his government is moving.

It is moving toward some accommodation between the two trade blocs that now split Europe and, beyond that, toward some reunification of the divided free world.

Outward Struggle

As Mr. Macmillan's words of self-revelation indicate, Europe's deeper struggle of power behind the outward struggle of economics must be understood if Britain's real position is to be grasped.

Though Britain has been described in France, with French cynicism, as a ship loosely anchored beside the Continent and always ready to sail away, the truth is that Britain never desired and tried desperately to prevent the immediate economic, and consequently the future political, division of Europe.

Whether it was right or wrong in refusing to join the Common Market, whether its counter-move and second-best choice in creating the European Free Trade Association of the Seven was sound or even viable, is a matter of opinion, still hotly debated in London. But this inquest on past events and happy might-have-beens is irrelevant now.

The stark fact of Europe's division, and the larger division of the North Atlantic community, has to be faced. Mr. Macmillan is facing it and so must Canada.

A library of books has been written, tons of statistics have been accumulated to show the difficulty of joining the Six and the Seven, and the still larger difficulty of fitting the North American economy into the new and booming economy of Europe.

Anyone attempting to discuss these questions is likely to sink in a swamp of figures, as some Canadian statesmen have sunk already.

Yet anyone who hopes to see the actual current of events beneath the swirling surface must realize a simple truth from the start. It is that both the law of historic gravity and a developing British exchange problem are pulling Britain toward Europe; that the attempt to keep Europe split must threaten, as Mr. Macmillan says, to revive the catastrophe twice in his lifetime.

Same Conclusion

The prime minister thinks as a statesman, a soldier of the first war, an administrator of the second. British businessmen may think in less lofty terms but the conclusion for most of them is the same.

They know that the Common Market is the most prosperous and most dynamic of the free world, whereas the economies of Britain and North America, though prosperous, are stagnant in growth.

To British industry abundant trade with the Six of Europe is essential. Demonstrating their faith in the Six, British capitalists have begun to invest heavily there. So has the industry of the United States which probably will place as much capital in the Common Market countries this year as it places in Canada. All of which means that the principles of the Six which seemed unlikely to work at all are working superbly.

Thus for reasons of power, peace and business, Britain, after a humiliating rebuff, is reconsidering its whole attitude toward the Six. But as it gingerly re-approaches that issue, Britain confronts some facts of power within Europe that it cannot control.

Britain Gets 'Six' Market Role Backing

PARIS (Reuters) — Parliamentarians from seven European countries Wednesday gave overwhelming approval to a resolution calling for British membership in the six-nation European Common Market.

The resolution was adopted by a vote of 58 to 1 at a meeting of the Western European Union, which links Britain with the six Common Market countries—Italy, West Germany, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg. There were four abstentions.

Dutch Socialist Senator H. Vos opposed the resolution because, he said, he wanted negotiations as soon as possible between the Common Market and the seven-nation European Free Trade Association, led by Britain, to end the trading bloc split in Europe.

The vote is not binding on the governments of the seven WEU nations but past resolutions adopted at the assembly have influenced government decisions.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Kathy Johnson, age 12, of Lafayette, Calif. for her question:

What is osmosis?

Osmosis is a simple law of nature. It goes on all by itself, all the time, all over the world.

all the time, all over the world. Unless we investigate, we even do not know that it is happening. But if this law were repealed, the world as we know it would come to an end. There would be trees to make oxygen for us to breathe, no grass for the cattle, no corn and no crops. Pretty soon there would be no animals and no people. That's how important osmosis is in our world.

Osmosis concerns the behavior of liquids. Water, as you know, tends to flow downhill. But, under certain conditions, water can be forced to flow uphill. We have plumbing systems to make it flow uphill under pressure. But, if you place a flow uphill from the ground to their topmost leaves. Instead of a plumbing

The liquid in the dish is plain water. The liquid in the tube is plain water plus dissolved sugar. The water seeped uphill through the membrane to join the stronger solution. By osmosis, a weaker solution will always seep through a membrane to join a stronger solution on the other side—uphill or downhill.

The roots at tiny root hairs of plants wear sleeves of membrane. The cells' and veins of plants are lined with membranes. And the plant tissues are filled with rich, sugary, liquid sap. The moisture in the ground contains dissolved chemicals. But this solution is weaker than the rich sap in the plant. In the earth, the sap and the ground water are separated by root membranes. So osmosis gets to work and the ground water seeps into the plant.

Other factors operate to keep moisture circulating through the plant. Water evaporates from leaves and branches in the air. This creates space and a pulling force from above. Water molecules tend to cling together. This, along with osmosis pushing up from below and evaporation pulling up from above keeps an elevator of water flowing upwards through the plant. This is the power which keeps the plant food circulating and provides the pressure for plants to stand up and grow.

MOTHER TAKES SON'S PET, SELF TO DEATH

LEWISTON, Idaho (AP).—A mother followed her incurably ill son into death Tuesday and took along the youth's pet dog.

The body of James Coble, 23, a lifelong victim of muscular dystrophy, was found in bed at his Lewiston home. Bodies of his mother, Mrs. Mildred Coble, and a cocker spaniel were found inside a closed garage at the house.

Nez Perce County coroner Kermit Malcom listed Mrs. Coble's death as suicide.

Mrs. Coble worked as a beautician to support herself and her invalid son. She pushed him to school daily in a wheel chair for 12 years and then classmates moved him from room to room.

When he was wheeled onto the stage during commencement in 1955, young Coble received a standing ovation as he received his diploma.

ACROSS THE PROVINCE

Burglary Loot Sold in East?

(Compiled From CP)

VANCOUVER—City police said Wednesday they believe a country-wide theft ring is indicated by a series of burglaries here recently.

Auto Union Rejects Aid In Politics

Direct support for any political party was ruled out Wednesday in a statement issued by the Victoria Automotive Maintenance Workers' Union, Local 151.

The statement followed investigation of a charge by the union's business agent, Syd G. Gardner, that the Canadian Labor Congress was forcing small unions to "toe the political line."

The statement, signed by local president Reg Gerrard and treasurer Colin Lamont, read in part:

"Executive members admitted no political correspondence or literature had been received from the CLC direct; but stated that the B.C. Federation of Labor and certain affiliates had tried to induce this union into political support."

Funeral Rites For Ex-Member Of B.C. Police

Funeral services were held here Wednesday for Maximilian Bethune Ewart, 76, resident of B.C. since 1900 who died Monday at Brentwood.

Born in France, and once a resident of the Channel Islands, he came to B.C. in 1900 after serving at sea. He was a member of the B.C. Police and the B.C. game branch, and operated a fruit ranch at Skaha Lake.

He and his bride, the former Margaret Ella Lowe of the Similkameen Valley, rode over the Hope-Princeton trail on their honeymoon. After her death he spent his summers in the interior and winters at Brentwood.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Maxine Simms, Yakima, Wash.; two sons, Peter, Castlebar, and Charles, Prince George; 10 grandchildren, and a sister, Anna, in Victoria.

Services were at Chaplin's and interment was at Royal Oak Burial Park.

They said they have no concrete evidence to support the theory, but expressed a belief that certain loot, ordered on consignment, had been shipped to underworld markets in eastern Canada.

Several large burglaries have occurred in Vancouver since the start of the year. The latest, last weekend, was $12,000 worth of typewriters.

Police said few of the wide range of articles stolen in major thefts here have turned up in Vancouver. They said it would be logical to assume that the majority of thefts have been committed on a consignment basis—that is thefts in which only selected goods are stolen to meet a specific order for such goods.

TO HELP SECT

NELSON—A stipendiary magistrate who is regarded as an authority on Doukhobor affairs has promised the radical Sons of Freedom sect he will recommend that their spiritual leader be permitted to remain in Canada.

Magistrate William Evans met 100 Doukhobors, mostly women, Wednesday to hear a request that Stefan Sorokin, a citizen of Uruguay, be permitted to remain in Canada.

Sorokin, who was not a member of the delegation, is visiting Canada on a visitors permit. He left here some years ago to find a new home for the sect in Uruguay and subsequently became a citizen of the South American republic.

He is in Canada to participate in a libel suit he has launched against the Trail, B.C. Times and a reporter.

Magistrate Evans, who has been given much of the credit for persuading Doukhobors to send their children to public school, explained to the delegation that the decision on whether Sorokin can remain in Canada must be made by the immigration department.

But he said he would recommend that Sorokin be permitted to remain.

AVOID CONFLICT

VERNON—The newly formed Chilliwack and Okanagan Summer Events Association has lined up major 1961 events to avoid clash of dates as in recent years. Vernon days will be July 19 to 21; Penticton Peach Festival, Aug. 3 to 6; Kelowna Regatta, Aug. 9 to 12, and Chilliwack Fall Fair, Aug. 15 to 18.

VICTORIA DIVORCES

Divorces were granted in B.C. Supreme Court here this week to:

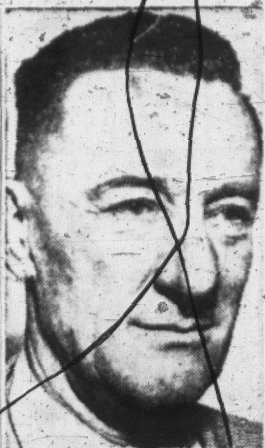

Mae Hayes, 436 33rd Avenue, Calgary, from Roland Hayes, stationed with the Canadian Army in Victoria. They were married at Calgary in 1948.

Jean Marcel Courville, 921 Shirley Road, Esquimalt, from Joan Evelyn Courville, Happy Valley Road, Victoria. They were married at Metchoan, V.I., in 1953.

William Hall, 534 John Street, Victoria, from Violet Elma Hall, 2621 Rose Street, Victoria. Married Prince Albert, Sask., 1934.

Sylvia Lyons, 2962 Millgrove Street, Victoria, from Patrick Lyons, 7507 Main Street. Married Victoria, 1947.

Mayoralty Race Draws Big Field

Jobless Man Will Seek Top Post

VANCOUVER (CP).—Percy William Hubbard says it may be presumptuous of him to try to become mayor of Vancouver.

"But I have applied for every other possible job here for as low as $10 a week without success," he said today.

"I think I can do no worse than apply for the top job."

Hubbard, 52, spoke with a reporter while standing on a stone wall at Victory Square here. He listed his occupation as an accountant in his nomination papers.

He said he had worked as a clerk, reporter, policeman, welfare officer and a secretary for the United Nations since he left his native London, England, several years ago.

"I have been speaking here (at Victory Square) for three years," he said, "largely to pigeons, which is most discouraging but does make excellent practice."

"I am unemployed. I have been out of work 12 months. I've paid my rates (taxes) but it's been a struggle."

VANCOUVER (CP).—Six candidates, including incumbent Tom Alsbury, filed nomination papers Wednesday to contest the mayoralty in Vancouver's civic elections, Dec. 14.

This is the first time since 1938 that this many persons have sought the post, held for the last two years by Mr. Alsbury, a former high school principal who defeated Fred Hume at the polls in 1958.

Others seeking the mayoralty this time:

Contractor Theodore Burnett; unemployed accountant Percy Hubbard; landlord Burton White; retired civil servant William Shenton; and lawyer T. J. Campbell.

In addition, 18 persons filed papers for the five aldermanic vacancies, 11 filed for the four parks board seats and seven filed for five school board seats.

Aldermen (five seats)—(x) Earle Adams, (x) Frank Baker, Walter W. Campbell, Arthur H. Chandler, John Dubno, Albert Dunn, Isaac Feldstein, Iris Hardwick, John R. Hawthorne, John L. Hayward, Samuel B. Jenkins, Marian E. Linnell, John McLean, Mona Morgan, Michael S. Puhach, (x) William G. Rathie, (x) Halford Wilson.

Canadian wine manufacturers in 1959 shipped 6,519,000 gallons, a drop from 6,585,000 gallons the previous year.

U.S. Raps Reds' Stand On Congo

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The United States charged Wednesday that the Soviet Union is doing all it can to undermine United Nations peace efforts in the Congo.

Britain earlier accused Russia of trying to impose an economic veto on the UN.

The charges resulted from Soviet refusal to pay its assessed share of the cost of the UN Congo force. A U.S. delegation spokesman said the refusal was "in line with the Soviet policy of seeking to destroy the United Nations, and to do everything it can to undermine the United Nations effort in the Congo."

The Soviet Union told the UN budgetary committee Tuesday that Hammarskjöld should submit proposals for ending the Congo operation in order to stave off UN bankruptcy.

"We do not believe the withdrawal of the United Nations forces now stationed in the Congo is the answer to the organization's financial problem," said Francis W. Carpenter, U.S. delegation spokesman.

BRITAIN DEFENDS DAG

In the budgetary committee Britain defended Hammarskjöld while Poland maintained the Soviet bloc attack on him.

Antoni Czarowski, the Polish delegate, said Hammarskjöld had no right to put the 1960 Congo estimate of $66,000,000 in the regular budget. He said Belgium, former rulers of the Congo, should bear the main financial burden.

A. H. M. Hillis, the British delegate, said the Soviet Union wanted to put all controversial items outside the normal UN budget—a device that would enable it to avoid its regular UN assessment.

Hillis announced that Britain would forego its initial airlift costs of $520,000 for transporting men and material to the Congo, on the assumption that the Congo bill be made a part of the regular budget.

UN Waiting For Kennedy To Take Over

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The General Assembly is planning an unusual winter recess to await the views of the new Kennedy administration in Washington.

The assembly, still in sort of a state of shock since Soviet Premier Khrushchev's table-thumping antics at the start of this session, has not taken action on a single major issue in the last two months. It has given up hope of ending its business on the target date of Dec. 17.

The assembly has not fixed a definite date for the Christmas recess, but Dec. 17 is the date it hopes to be able to start the holiday. In previous years the assembly has concluded its fall session before Christmas.

Most delegates feel that the United States cannot make any hard decisions until Senator John Kennedy takes over the presidency. They do not want the 99-nation assembly to reconvene before the middle of February.

So far the major accomplishments of the assembly have been the perennial decision to shelve Communist China's bid for membership and seating of the Congo delegation backing President Joseph Kasavubu.

STAGGERING LIST

The assembly is confronted with a staggering list of 64 speakers who want a say on Russia's proposal to abolish all colonies at once.

Another of Khrushchev's ideas, a three-man board to replace Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld, has not been made into a formal proposal by the Russians.

Still coming up for discussion are acrimonious debates on Hungary and Tibet, and resolutions by the Soviet Union and Cuba accusing the United States of aggression.

Next week the political committee takes up the question of the Algerian rebels' six-year war for independence from France.

Right now the committee is discussing armament, a question on which its members would like to hear the views of the Kennedy administration.

Ice Fouls Hydro

WINNIPEG (CP)—Heavy ice clogged three power plants on the Winnipeg River Tuesday and forced the Manitoba hydro-electric board to import electricity from Ontario and Saskatchewan.

DISCUSSION OF MENTAL HEALTH by Mrs. J. Vining in her health and personal development class at Oak Bay High School prompted four students to help mental health patients. Assisted with funds raised by Future Nurses' Club at cake sale, they collected and wrapped gifts, then turned them over to Andrew G. Chatten, executive director of Victoria branch, Canadian Mental Health Association. Students are, from left, Barbara Hobbs, Val Green, Carol Brown and Jennifer Costain.

GUEST SPEAKER at Victoria University Extension Association meeting, Monday, will be professor C. A. (Tony) Emery, of Victoria College. His talk on "The Arts in British Columbia" will be given in the college auditorium.

U.K. Strives To Save Conference

LONDON (CP)—Britain has stepped up a two-pronged campaign aimed at averting a breakdown of next week's constitutional review conference for the Central African Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland.

High level sources said today they hope the drive, aimed at African Negroes and Europeans alike, will encourage the various leaders attending the conference to modify their declared rigid positions.

European settlers in Southern Rhodesia, among them federation Prime Minister Sir Roy Welensky, feel Britain is giving in too quickly to Negro demands. They want the British government to put on the brakes and to adopt a more gradual approach.

The Negro leaders in the federation formed by Nyasaland and the two Rhodesias appear to be intrinsically opposed to federation. They view it as an attempt by Europeans in Southern Rhodesia to maintain an iron grip over the Negroes, who overwhelmingly outnumber the whites.

SECESSION WANTED

Nationalist leaders, particularly Dr. Hastings Banda, of Nyasaland, have stated categorically that they want the right of secession from the federation now.

Britain is faced next week with the delicate problem of trying to reconcile the two views. Both Colonial Secretary Iain Macleod and Prime Minister Macmillan feel a break-up of the federation would have disastrous consequences.

British leaders feel they have two main tasks in performing their conciliatory role.

The first is the necessity of attempting to convince the European settlers that a real and dramatic political advance for the Negroes is essential now.

The second is to try to convince the Negroes, particularly their leaders who need convincing, of the obvious benefits that can be derived from an association of the three colonial territories.

Tug Sinks; 5 Hurt

BANDON, Ore. (CP)—Five crewmen were recovering today from injuries suffered Wednesday when their tug crashed into a rock jetty and sank.

Most seriously injured was Charles May of Fort Dix, Calif., skipper of the 117-foot $200,000 tug, Elizabeth Olson of Eureka, Calif. He suffered a broken ankle.

May and nine members of the crew were rescued by the tug Rebel which went into the stricken vessel. They jumped to the safety of the Rebel's deck.

One man, Paul Madsen, was swept overboard, but he made it to the jetty.

Congo Severs Relations With Arabs, Plot Charged

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters) President Joseph Kasavubu announced today that diplomatic relations between the Congo and United Arab Republic have been severed.

Kasavubu demanded the immediate recall of the U.A.R. ambassador, Mourad Ghaleb, and the rest of the embassy staff and asked that they should not be replaced for the time being.

The demand was contained in a letter to U.A.R. President Nasser.

Kasavubu said Ghaleb had plotted to overthrow the "established authority" in the Congo and sought to encourage "rebel elements"—meaning former premier Patrice Lumumba.

Meanwhile, Congolese army spokesmen said their forces have arrested two high-ranking Lumumba supporters but Lumumba's whereabouts remained a mystery.

"I will get him, finally," vowed army strongman Col. Joseph Mobutu. "He will have trouble getting to Stanleyville."

Moscow radio said Wednesday Lumumba had reached "friendly territory" east of Leopoldville and was "out of reach of Mobutu's forces."

Lumumba, who slipped away from a Congolese guard Sunday, was believed headed for Stanleyville, his political stronghold.

Mobutu said Lumumba's defence minister, Maurice Mpolo, was arrested at Mushie, 125 miles north of here, and a spokesman for the colonel said later that Senate President Joseph Okito was picked up at Kikwit, 250 miles east of here, carrying "subversive documents."

2-CENT MILK SUBSIDY URGED BY DAIRY CHIEF

TORONTO (CP)—A government subsidy of two cents a quart on milk should be recommended by the dairy industry to stimulate flagging consumption, President Pierre Cote of the National Dairy Council of Canada said today.

The cost probably wouldn't be any steeper than the government now pays out to assist dairy farmers and it would be a great deal less than extending the present system of aid, Mr. Cote declared.

Ike Recognizes Nixon As New Leader of GOP

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has given Vice-President Richard Nixon public recognition as the new leader of the Republican party, in sharp disagreement with the stand of New York's Governor Nelson Rockefeller.

The White House said today that Eisenhower, in a toast at a White House dinner Wednesday night, recognized Nixon as head of the party for the next four years, and will have Eisenhower's support and the support of all those present.

Whether so intended or not, the president's comments amounted to a rejoinder to Rockefeller, who spoke at an Albany press conference only the day before.

Rockefeller, once a competitor for this year's Republican nomination for the presidency, said a party without a president in office is without an actual head except perhaps for the national chairman.

In Los Angeles Wednesday night Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona, another unsuccessful aspirant for the Republican nomination, said Eisenhower and not Nixon is the titular chief.

Lands and forests minister Ray G. Williston said this Wednesday, when he addressed a meeting of Oak Bay Kiwanis on "Power Developments in the Peace and Columbia Rivers."

"With this power from the Columbia, Americans in the Pacific Northwest will come to the end of their hydro power resources," he said.

"They were being forced towards thermal (nuclear) power but had not yet found an economical way of developing it."

Britain, he said, had done more than anyone else with atomic power because she needed it. But now the British government has said it is slowing down development because atomic power is not yet competitive.

"This province has as great a potential of cheap hydro power as any place in the world," Mr. Williston said. "Even when the Columbia is fully developed, it will still

Crackdown on Hunters To Follow Complaints

(From Duncan Bureau)

NORTH COWICHAN—There have been a number of complaints about hunters shooting and trespassing in closed areas of the municipality, North Cowichan council was told Wednesday.

Reeve D. C. Morton said he had received six complaints.

"Some people are concerned because they feel we have relaxed our bylaw which prohibits shooting in built-up areas, but this is not so," he said.

He served notice that there will be a crackdown on offending hunters.

Officers of North Saanich 4-H Goat Club for the coming year are David Shiner, re-elected president; Mary Lord, vice-president; and Cheryl Moyer, secretary.

Four Admit Breaking Into Garage

Four men charged with breaking and entering with intent to steal at Malahat B.A. Service early this month changed their pleas to guilty when they appeared Wednesday in Colwood RCMP court.

One of them, Albert Jenik, of Vancouver, was jailed for two years when he appeared in Saanich police court Tuesday for burglary and theft at an Elk Lake service station Nov. 14, to which he pleaded guilty.

Magistrate William Ostler gave Jenik concurrent sentences of two years for possession of burglary tools, and six months each on three counts of theft of less than $50.

REMANDED

Also charged in Colwood court were Barry Jackson and Donald Nelson, of Victoria, and Robert Allister Borgal, no fixed address.

All were remanded a week for probation reports and sentence.

They indicated they wish other outstanding burglary charges against them — from up-island points — to be dealt with in Colwood RCMP court.

Extra Hour For Yuletide Stores Asked

(From Duncan Bureau)

NORTH COWICHAN — A special sitting of North Cowichan Council will be held shortly to approve a revision to the shop's closing hours bylaw which will permit stores in the municipality to remain open to 9 p.m. on the seven days preceding Christmas.

Action to amend the present bylaw, which allows stores to remain open to 8 p.m., was taken by the council after Chemainus Chamber of Commerce requested 9 p.m. shopping December 21, 22 and 23.

Noting that Chemainus merchants had changed their minds several times about late shopping hours, Reeve D. C. Morton said he hoped the current revision will "settle the question for good".

161-MPH WINDS LASH ISLANDS IN PACIFIC

TOKYO (AP)—The violent off-season typhoon Ophelia, carrying 161-mile-an-hour centre winds, battered Pacific atolls today and headed for the Philippines.

Virtually all buildings on the tiny U.S. administered Ulithi Atoll were reported destroyed, except for a concrete coast guard station.

NEW INFORMATION

By JOHN MIKA

City council today summoned Memorial Arena Commission to a special meeting Saturday morning.

The extraordinary session was called to deal with "new information" brought before aldermen this morning as the arena controversy exploded again.

No decision was taken on whether Saturday's session will be open or closed to the public.

The call for first official meeting between council and the commission since the controversy began a month ago appeared to reverse council's official position. Only last week aldermen voted confidence in the commission after an informal meeting that ran to midnight.

NO REPLY

Meanwhile, arena commission members maintained silence on a verbatim report by commissioner Courtney Haddock in Wednesday editions of The Times severely lashing his colleagues.

Commission chairman F. G. Mulliner could not be reached but commissioner W. R. Pinfold said he was certain a reply would be made to Mr. Haddock's statement "but whether it will be by the commission as a whole or individually I do not know."

Mayor Scurrah said later that Mr. Mulliner told him a statement would be made by the commission Friday.

Aldermen spent more than an hour today discussing the series of controversies surrounding resignation of six former employees, the subsequent resignation of arena manager Joe Dukowski and the steps taken by the commission.

Following the meeting, Mayor Scurrah said:

"At a meeting in my office this morning attended by all the aldermen, it was decided to ask for a meeting with the arena commission to be held Saturday for the purpose of exploring new information that has been brought to council today.

"I have been informed that the commission also is making a statement Friday."

We May Be Forced To Go Nuclear—Green

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canada might have to become a nuclear power in self-defence.

Unions Will Hold 'Review'

OTTAWA (CP)—The policy-making general conference committee of the 15 non-operating railway unions will be called into session if the government's stop-the-strike law is enacted, Frank H. Hall, chief union spokesman, said today.

He said that the committee—composed of some 100 general chairmen who represent the various locals in the 15 union "non-op" group—will "review and reassess the whole of their position."

LIGHT THAT LIGHT

Advance donation of $25 for Kiwanis Village Society's porchlight drive was made this morning on behalf of Old Age Pensioners Association No. 1 by president R. H. French, 73. Canvasser was 73-year-old Mrs. G. F. Ross. Kiwanis drive will be held tonight to raise funds for a new $233,000 villa to house 52 deserving elderly persons. The project will provide immediate work for 60 men and will be completed in nine months. Don't forget, if you want to help, switch on your porch light.

Eleven Candidates Seek Four Aldermanic Seats

Eleven candidates were in the running for four aldermanic seats when nominations closed today at City Hall.

Latest entries were 37-year-old newcomer Michael J. Griffin, director of a plumbing and heating firm, and Sam Lane, tourist industry spokesman.

Mr. Lane announced his candidacy Wednesday night. Mr. Griffin said he would file papers before the 2 p.m. deadline today.

No last minute entries were in sight for the two school trustee seats at stake for the city on Greater Victoria school board.

Veteran trustee Mrs. E. M. Maunsell and newcomer Ralph Fryer, a photographer, were to be declared elected by acclamation.

Besides the two final entries in the Dec. 8 election, candidates for aldermen are:

Ald. Arthur Dowell, Ald. A. I. Curtis, Charles Nelles, apartment house owner; A. W. Toone, union official; Mrs. Sally Rogers, housewife; Victor Williams, real estate salesman; W. C. Hudson, retired businessman and clubman; Cecil M. Parrott, retired businessman; Elgin Neish, commercial fisherman.

'CHILDREN OF INDIA'

Dimes Could Mean Much to Many

Poet Edgar Guest once wrote "At Christmas man is almost what God sent him here to be."

In India, only the lucky youngsters dream of finding a two-anna piece in rice cakes.

Countless children of Mother India are starving, for 365 days a year. Even gifts of the barest necessities make a Christmas for these unfortunate youngsters.

If everybody in Greater Victoria contributed a 10-cent piece, there would be close to $15,000 realized for this laudable work!

Dr. Lotta Hirschmanova, director of the Unitarian Service Committee on whose behalf the Times is collecting money for India's hungry waifs, has this to say:

"I wonder how many of you have looked into the stark

CUBA TRAIN DERAILED AS BOMBINGS CONTINUE

HAVANA (UPI)—The Havana-Santiago express train was derailed today in a "spectacular" pileup near Santa Clara. Government sources suspected sabotage by foes of Premier Fidel Castro. Fourteen persons were reported injured.

The new incident came as hundreds of militiamen with shoot-to-kill orders patrolled the streets of Havana determined to stop repetition of the terror bombing which blacked out a fifth of Havana for 17 hours.

Cuba Sizzles Over Rocket

'Yankee Provocation' Charge Flung As Fragments Hit Island

HAVANA (UPI)—The official newspaper Revolution said today the United States had deliberately exploded a rocket over Cuba as a new "Yankee provocation." The newspaper reported that 40-pound rocket fragments fell on eastern Cuba.

Cuba mentioned no casualties or major damage but the incident may bring a further deterioration in U.S.-Cuban relations.

(The U.S. Defence Department said it could not "exclude the possibility" that a piece of a U.S. satellite rocket destroyed over the Atlantic Wednesday fell on Cuba. A spokesman said "we are concerned . . . and are investigating further.")

Informed sources in Havana said the government of Premier Fidel Castro was expected to lodge a strong protest with the United States for a "deliberate attack" carried out to demonstrate the Pentagon's contempt for the people of Cuba.

The 20-foot Thor-Able-Star rocket was destroyed by the range safety officer when a malfunction developed in flight. The rocket was to boost two satellites into orbit—the 203-pound Transit III—a navigation satellite and a 40-pound radiation study sphere carried as a hitch-hiker.

REPORTERS FRUSTRATED

The Thor-Able-Star was blown up less than three minutes after launch, out of range of ground observers. But the defence department delayed 40 minutes before reporting that the satellites failed to achieve orbit. It was another hour and 20 minutes before it was announced the rocket had been deliberately destroyed.

Reporters were frustrated in attempts to learn the reason for the delay.

Liberals, CCF Fight Strike Ban

OTTAWA (CP)—With tension mounting and time running out, Parliament resumed its race today against the crushing threat of a national railway strike—now just two days away.

Warning of massive unemployment problems resulting from a rail walkout, the government is pressing ahead in the Commons with its stop-the-strike law.

But before legislative action will legally forbid 111,000 "non-op" railway employees from walking off their jobs at 8 a.m. Saturday, the government first must surmount a Liberal kill-the-bill amendment, finish second and third reading in the Commons, speed the legislation to the Senate and finally get royal assent.

The government is fighting a stiff attack from both Liberal and CCF-New Party critics on its emergency legislation aimed at deferring the railway wage crisis and the strike threat itself, until May 15.

Should the strike be allowed to take place, Labor Minister

Students Hold Out In Caracas Riots

CARACAS (AP)—Hardcore Leftist students, trading gunfire with troops, still held out in their self-styled "Stalin-grad" dormitory at Caracas University today as disorders spread to half-a-dozen other cities.

President Romulo Betancourt's Moderate Socialist government cracked down hard on its leftist enemies in an effort to crush the week-long insurrection which has resulted in eight persons killed.

Police grabbed about 250 persons in raids on labor movements to prevent a bank strike and other threatened work stoppages.

The government said disorders, mainly rioting by high school students, had spread to Maracaibo, the oil centre, Barquisimeto, Venezuela's third largest city, Maturin, Portuguesa, Puerto la Cruz, and San Juan de los Morros, a health resort 50 miles southwest of the capital.

Two Dogs Aboard Five-Ton Sputnik

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union today put in orbit its third space ship of the year carrying plants, animals, insects and two dogs named "Little Bee" and "Little Fly."

A scientist at Britain's Jodrell Bank Observatory said the feat shows the Russians now are capable of putting a man into space and bringing him back safely. "We expect a similar launching with a man aboard any day now," he said.

Tass news agency said the "sputnik-ship" without the last stage of the carrier rocket weighs about five tons which makes it the heaviest of all the man-made satellites.

Premier Khrushchev called it "a great victory and a step to man's flight into space."

In West Germany, H. Kaminski, head of the Bochum Observatory, said he believed the space ship would be brought back to earth Friday. He said the space ship's orbit was too close to the earth's surface and it would get "too hot."

Tass said the experimental animals are being watched with radio-television and telemetering systems.

Ivan Shevlyakov, chief of the Moscow Planetarium's scientific department, said this space ship is circling closer to the earth than previous Soviet space vehicles.

"That means the present space ship cannot fly for a long time," he said. "If they are not going to bring it down to earth, it means it will burn up very soon in the friction of the earth's atmosphere as it gradually loses altitude. It is flying very close to the earth's atmosphere where the friction is high. We don't know yet if they plan to bring this space ship back to earth."

The Russians launched a 4.6-ton space ship last August.

Tass said the space ship is circling the earth in a cigar-shaped orbit every 88.6 minutes. It is following a path ranging from 115 miles above the earth at its nearest point to 164 miles at its farthest. Red Summit Talks Over

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The three-week Communist summit conference here is finished and a short communique is expected to be published Friday, usually well-informed sources said today.

According to these informants the communique will just record the fact that a meeting took place and that agreement was reached on the questions before it.

Sit-In Student Struck

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A group of insult-screaming women manhandled a university student today in front of integrated William Frantz School, saying the youth led recent downtown sit-in demonstrations.

The women shouted curses, shoved and kicked Sydney Goldfinch, son of a Protestant minister. Police rescued him. Police also rescued George Dreyfous, president of the Civil Liberties Union in Louisiana.

Three other youths accompanied Goldfinch and received police protection. Goldfinch is a Tulane University student.

"I didn't think they'd recognize me," he said.

REPORTER ACCUSED

Some of the women demonstrators accused reporter Jerry Hopkins of the New Orleans Times-Picayune of hitting them with a camp stool. Police told Hopkins he would have to leave the area or they would arrest him.

Earlier, one woman hit a reporter on the back when she was trying to keep television cameras away.

Two men on leave from Time and Life magazines, filming a documentary on the situation to be shown on television, were ordered by police questions before it.

Clean Up the Arena Mess!

THE SITUATION AT VICTORIA'S Memorial Arena, as exposed in a statement to The Times Wednesday night by Commissioner Courtney Haddock, is clearly intolerable. Mayor Scurrah and City Council, who have thus far displayed only token interest in the problem, should act without delay to clean it up.

Inexplicably, Mayor Scurrah has failed to show the leadership in this affair that he has evinced in the conduct of other city business. His original comment was a detached statement to the effect that "the matter is in hand." Mr. Haddock's report demonstrates vividly that it is not.

The unique contribution of City Council to this problem has been to move a vote of confidence in the Arena Commission, in which stand they are far removed from the public. There has been little to inspire confidence in the Commission's stubborn and perverse handling of the Dukowski resignation, and in its obvious reluctance to restore office manager Kenneth Noakes to his rightful post.

Mr. Haddock describes the Commission's stand on this latter question as "a travesty of justice." Mr. Noakes, it will be recalled, is the man who opened up the whole matter of irregularities in Arena management by a letter to the Commission on October 24. Now, Mr. Haddock says, he is to be punished for rendering this public service by being deprived of his livelihood.

Mr. W. D. Osborn, an Arena commissioner, denies having told two of the women who resigned with Mr. Noakes that he would take five employees back "one by one . . . to save face for the Commission," and that Mr. Noakes would be excluded. He has, however, in a prepared statement, enunciated the astonishing proposition that it will be "doubly difficult" to consider taking Mr. Noakes back because "some persons" have spoken in his behalf.

This line of reasoning is nothing short of outrageous. Far from being censured for bringing Arena management to light, Mr. Noakes should be commended, reinstated, and compensated for the time he has lost away from the job.

This, of course, would require a generous spirit from a Commission which was prepared to admit that it was in the wrong. It is an unlikely eventuality from the present incumbents of the office.

The solution to current Arena difficulties is both simple and obvious. As was suggested in an editorial in this space last Friday, the first step should be to let Mr. Dukowski go immediately, with appropriate severance pay. Then the resignations of the present Commission should be invited, and a new Chairman appointed. His first duty would be to restore Mr. Noakes and his staff to their jobs and engage an interim manager (there is a man of experience at liberty in the city today), pending appointment of a full-time manager. An alert Council could achieve all this in a day or two.

But will the Mayor and Council put aside the petty bickering and the personalities of recent hearings and act in the best interests of the community, as Arena patrons so ardently desire?

Alderman candidates Charles Nelles, A. W. Toone and Victor Williams have pledged that their first project, if elected, will be to clean up the mess at the Arena. If the aldermen refuse to move on this matter, they should be replaced by people who will.

Justice and fair play must prevail. Mr. Haddock has said that he "will not give in" until this matter is cleaned up. He may be alone among Commissioners in this courageous stand, but he is far from alone in support from the citizens of Victoria.

TRADE MINISTER HEES obviously is not fooled by the rising figures for Canada's export trade. He foresees that the world market conditions which have contributed to this increase in the past few months very probably will not continue, and he is urging his corps of trade commissioners in 49 countries to exert the utmost effort in selling Canadian goods abroad.

In doing so, the minister is not merely concerned with trying to create a surplus of exports over imports of goods, helpful as that would be. He knows that exchange of manufactured goods and raw materials is only part of Canada's balance of payments. And on the whole balance, despite well-advertised increases in export of goods, the national deficit is running at well over $1 billion a year.

Last year it was $1.4 billion; this year the estimate is about $1.2 billion. Against this tremendous deficit—made up largely of huge sums sent abroad in bond interest, shipping charges, tourist spending and similar payments—the current four-month favorable balance of goods exchange is seen in its proper perspective. It is, in short, little more than a gesture.

An increase in exports is, of course, one way of helping to balance our international payments, and a good one. But it will have to be on a much larger scale than anything yet in prospect before it will significantly affect the general picture.

So far Canada has covered up its huge annual deficit of payments by importing capital in the form of large investments, chiefly by American interests. This is another way of saying that we are paying for our bond interest, shipping and trips abroad by selling our natural resources and manufacturing plants.

How long could a family or a business firm keep up that sort of "economic" activity? How long can a country do it?

Mr. Hees is trying to find a solution within the limits of his department of trade. But even if successful it will be only a partial solution. The basic remedy for Canada to stop living beyond its means and borrowing to make up the deficit. Until we do that, optimistic talk of a trade surplus can mean almost nothing.

Another Milestone

THE CONGRATULATIONS which flowed in all day yesterday to Sir Winston Churchill, up from his sickbed to celebrate his 86th birthday, reflected the universal esteem in which the aging statesman is held.

They came from all parts of the world, from all walks of life, from all ages, of admirers, and they ranged from the personal message of the Queen and the friendly call of a junkman on his wagon, to the visit of flower-bearing neighborhood children.

Sir Winston is out of the direct limelight now. His appearances in the Commons are fewer, his public addresses rarer. But he is very much alive, very much in touch with affairs, and very much in the affections of his people. It takes little cause to bring forth public expressions of that affection and regard, as his birthday showed.

That is as it should be, for no nation worthy of the name could forget what Churchill did for it—indeed, for all the free world. As no other man could have—as perhaps no other individual in all history has ever done for his country—he kept it free and made it victorious. As so inherent a part of England now, no matter how many his days on earth, he will live for ever in men's regard.

They Leave Their Echoes

TIME WAS WHEN A WHOLE continent listened in nightly to Amos and Andy. It was a radio program that had a homely humor which appealed to everyone. Its favorite lines became everyday phrases for millions of people—"We-e-e-ll, I'll tell ya," "Len me two dollars till Sad'dy," "Buzz me, Miss Blue," and a dozen others.

Last Saturday the radio program, after 32 years, was broadcast for the last time. Relatively few persons could have known of its demise until they read of it in the newspaper. Television and changing times had passed it by. Yet the classic which Charles Correll and Freeman Gosden created will live in many memories—a recollection of the days when humor was simple and funny, characters were amiable and likeable, listeners were constant and devoted.

The announcer's breathy "Here they are!" which followed the violin theme and was as much a part of the program as Andy's bumbling and Amos' friendly aid, is now a part of the past. But "here they were," and thousands on this continent were made happier by their presence.

FROM BONN

By JOSEPH ALSOP

West Germany Says 'No'

THIS small, normally imperturbable capital is still quivering like a jelly with the astonishment and indignation caused by the U.S. Treasury Department's final effort to mold the foreign and defense policies of the Eisenhower administration.

Alsop

Secretary of the Treasury Anderson requested, and the way he chose to make his request left an inconceivably bad impression.

Secretary Anderson came here, to begin with, to demand nothing less than a radical permanent change in the most vital inner relationships of the Western Alliance. There is no other way to characterize the Anderson proposal that the Germans immediately assume responsibility for six hundred million dollars a year of the support costs of the U.S. troops in Germany.

Without Warning

Even if this is the right approach to the balance of payments problem, which is extremely doubtful, this kind of basic and permanent change is not normally made without warning or time for reflection, and almost at pistol point. But that, apparently, was the way Secretary Anderson and President Eisenhower thought the change ought to be made.

Secretary Anderson and his vast entourage arrived here late on November 20. The next day, U.S. Ambassador Dowling first heard, with horror, of the true nature of the secretary's mission. It is an open secret that Dowling at once made a strong plea for a different approach. But the plea was fruitless, and the great surprise was duly sprung upon the German negotiators on Monday morning.

In a personal letter to the Chancellor, President Eisenhower had mentioned support costs as one item among several that had a bearing on the balance of payments. But the Chancellor, Finance Minister Erhard and his colleagues were utterly unprepared for the spectacle that now met their eyes—the American Secretary of the Treasury frantically, obsessively determined to discuss support cost and nothing else.

Payments Program

One thing that Secretary Anderson might well have discussed was the program for easing the U.S. balance of payments which Finance Minister Erhard had got ready in advance.

By Erhard's estimate, this program would have assured an improvement of no less than twelve hundred million dollars in next year's payment balance. Whether or not this estimate is correct, the program contained one item about which there could be no argument.

Erhard offered prepayment, in cash on the barrelhead, of the six hundred and fifty million dollar German debt for American aid, which is not normally due to be paid off for another twenty years or more.

This prepayment, which Secretary Anderson had not asked for, actually assured him of a somewhat larger sum to ease his situation than his support cost demand would have provided.

Meaningful Fact

At one point in the negotiation, Chancellor Adenauer underlined this fairly meaningful fact, drily adding that if the Secretary of the Treasury would just take the money he wanted now in the form of debt prepayment, basic changes in the policy of the Western Alliance could then be left for discussion in an orderly manner with the representatives of the next American administration.

The Secretary merely brushed the Chancellor aside and went straight back to the support costs. And so his mission ended in mutual bitterness and without any solid result.

Altogether, there has been no comparable episode in the whole postwar history of American diplomacy. It must be added that Secretary Anderson's fellow negotiator, Under Secretary of State Douglas Dillon, appears to be entirely free of blame for this episode, which has made a bad business much worse.

The official spokesmen in Washington are now saying that Dillon loved every minute of it. But the Germans are convinced that he hated every minute of it—which is just as well, since Dillon needs to retain the respect of America's allies if he is to take a high post under President Kennedy.

Central Mystery

Meanwhile, the central mystery remains. Why was this grave balance of payments problem so long neglected, and then suddenly attacked in this publicly hysterical manner? Why was Secretary Anderson so obsessively fixed on the one expedient that was sure to be especially repellent to the Germans?

Why was this desperate effort made to introduce a basic change in our foreign relations in the last weeks of a dying administration?

There are no easy answers to these questions. Only one thing is certain. This balance of payments problem, now further inflamed by the Secretary of the Treasury himself, is one of the more unpleasant elements in the far from pleasant heritage of President-elect Kennedy, whose power to revive the waning Western Alliance will be gravely limited by the weakness of the dollar on the international exchanges.

AS FUGITIVES TALK

By DERRICK SINGTON

TO get the material for "The Anthill" (Stevens, 37s 6d), Susanne Labin interviewed, in Hong Kong, a score or so of fugitives recently escaped from the Chinese People's Republic. Their experiences reveal what it has been like, in recent years, to get at odds with the powers that be, under Mao Tse-tung's grim and fanatical tyranny.

There is the student, required to remould his mind, who, having refused to do so, was bullied and beaten in prison until he made the outward gesture of submission he was "sent to Coventry" for six months in the library where he worked; there is the merchant who had been caught up in the "Five Antis" campaign to expose the capitalists, and who, declining to confess to tax-evasion, of which he had not been guilty, was harassed and threatened till he complied, thus "justifying" the Communist authorities in taking away half his business (this was not the end of it—years later he had to walk in a procession, carry a placard on which had been written: "I have stolen the property of the people"); there is the metal-worker, disillusioned with broken promises of "better days" and the dictatorship of officials; there is the agricultural laborer who got his first morsel of land in 1950, only to become a wage-earner again under the brigadiers of collectivization and to see his wife taken away for having "sabotaged political studies."

More Shocking

We learn too—and it is more shocking than the oppression of the individual—how the regime bears down on human relationships, changing love and affection into hatred and betrayal: the student's wife had left him, fearing that persecution would be extended to her and to their children; the merchant's elder daughter, having joined the party, was threatening to denounce her sister; the peasant's six-year-old son was spying on him; a young girl had involuntarily ruined her father through disclosing at school that she had clashed with him, at home, in political argument.

Such pin-pointed tragedies remind us that totalitarianism is one of the great evils of our century.

The interviews do not, however, provide convincing evidence that—as the authors evidently believe—the Communist rulers of China will "be overthrown by a revolt of their own people."

One of her interlocutors, an ex-Communist who had clashed physically with a party superior, had turned partisan, but resistance movements do not seem to have been sufficiently in the minds of the others interviewed to have elicited a mention.

Two Communist officials, "Ku" of the Old Guard, and "Lei," a young cadre, trained after the party came to power, appear to have fled because they feared prosecution rather than because they had taken any strong opposition line. "Violette," a Frenchwoman married to a Chinese peasant, and deported by the Communists, even told Madame Labin that "the young people (presumably in her village) were carried away by the propaganda; they swallowed it all."

The all-important question is: Do the Chinese peasants, through whom Mao achieved power, already feel that the hardships under his "ordered" regime are worse than the still remembered famines, insecurity and deprivations during the War Lord period?

Some of those interviewed answered the question affirmatively. But the interviews took place in Hong Kong where refugees are unlikely to risk offending the Chinese Nationals. This prevents one from taking their statements entirely at face value.

No Evidence

The Chinese peasants may one day embark on organized resistance, but this book provides no evidence that that time is at hand.

There are other striking things in the book. The Old Guard Communist, "Ku," told the authors that six to seven million peasants were killed in the collectivization struggle; but it would be important to know more about the basis of this grim calculation. Tantalizingly, we are told hardly anything about the case of a woman who had been "tried" for advocating birth-control.

The case of "Chang," the bank clerk who had been bullied into confessing mythical defalcations, but later rehabilitated as a result of a "reform of the reformers," suggests that rectification campaigns in China occasionally have some effect, depending probably on the presence of a scrupulous party official at a middle level.

Part of "The Anthill" consists of a polemic with a French journalist whose defence of Mao's forced industrialization the authors claim to have demolished tooth and nail.

There is also a discussion with a Chinese professor who agrees with her in approving the long-standing United States policy of virtual boycott of Peking. The arguments adduced are well known ones based on the hope of an "explosion" inside China, but there will be many who will doubt their wisdom.

Forces in Latin-America

In your issue of November 17, first page, you reported "Ike sends forces to Latin-America."

U.S. naval forces have been dispatched to bolster the tottering dictatorships of Guatemala and Nicaragua—dictatorships which were fostered directly by the U.S. After the Marines left Nicaragua a West Point trained Nicaraguan—Somoza—took over power and established a dictatorship which lasted until he was assassinated when his two sons took over power and still maintain a dictatorship. The Guatemalan revolution was similarly fostered by the U.S. and if it had not been for the assistance of the U.S. in armaments and planes it is very doubtful that the revolution would have succeeded. When events like this happen in Hungary there is an uproar from the U.S. government and press. I do not approve of the Russian intervention in Hungary but after all Russia does not claim to be the leader of free peoples and the right of people to elect the government of their choice.

Castro is condemned by the U.S. because he dared to curb the power of the U.S. in Cuba and let me assure your readers that the economic power of the U.S. in all Latin-America is overwhelming. Whenever any man in these Latin-American countries tries to curb this power he is immediately termed a Communist. I lived in Latin-America for some 28½ years and I do know something about this. Let me quote from Newsweek magazine of 31 Oct. "How tight the squeeze." This phrase referred to Cuba where 75 per cent of imports originated from the U.S. and the majority of Cuban industry was in the hands of Americans with a very large part of Cuban exports being destined for the U.S.

What chance has Castro against such economic power?

When Panamanians agitate for a greater share of the proceeds of the Panama Canal they are immediately classified as Communists. When Nasser took over the Suez Canal, and incidentally is operating it most efficiently, there was no protest from our American cousins and in fact he was supported by the U.S. when the British and French tried to do something about it. I am wondering if the Americans would be as complacent if the Panama Government decided to nationalize the Panama Canal.

Here in Canada we are also in the economic grip of the U.S. and I am wondering if the average Canadian realizes the frightening future which awaits our country unless steps are taken soon to rectify the present situation. Unfortunately our leaders in Ottawa do not have the courage to take such steps which would protect future generations of Canadians. It may already be too late.

Road to Disaster

The Voice of Women movement, which has a large and rapidly growing membership in British Columbia, has always stressed the need for sanity in the cold war, for a calm and reasoned approach in the face of bluster and intransigence, for untiring efforts to seek and initiate constructive proposals to ease international tension, instead of merely countering those which are destructive.

A U.S. submarine, the George Washington, has sailed on a "war deterrent mission" armed with hydrogen bombs equalling the destructive power of all the bombs dropped during Second World War. Those who did not experience an air raid in the last war might try to recall one they've seen in a movie—it will be no exaggeration. Then multiply that by the hundreds and thousands of air raids that took place all over the world between 1930 and 1945. Then add Hiroshima and Nagasaki. The question then is, will the voyage of the George Washington to its "undiscovered destination" do anything to ease cold war tensions? Does it represent a constructive approach to cold war strategy?

We submit that this is the nuclear deterrent policy carried ad absurdum. We submit that the line between such a deterrent and an act of provocation is indistinguishable, except for intent—and who in Russia, for example, is likely to see in all this the best of intentions? We submit that if the positions were reversed (and we have now invited retaliation in kind) the Western world would be outraged. And we submit that this kind of action can only lead to disaster.

What can we do? Join a movement whose activities are focussed on the need to find peaceful solutions to the world's problems. There are several such movements in Canada which, like Voice of Women, are not Communist, and which have constructive and thoughtful programs to offer. Or work within the organizations to which we already belong to gain support for resolutions to the government on sane cold war policies. Certainly write to our MPs and men like Mr. Diefenbaker, Mr. Green, Mr. Pearson. These are the channels through which we must work in a democracy. This is the way of reason and of sanity. It may not be as dramatic as some might wish, but if we believe in democracy and want to see it prevail, this is the way it must be done. Through our Government we must try to bring Canadian opinion to bear upon those policies of other governments when we believe they can only lead us closer to nuclear annihilation.

Ottawa Move to Protect Car Industry Questioned

Times Business Editor

Changes in evaluation of imported motor vehicles and parts for excise and sales tax purposes came into effect today and still no one, least of all the federal government, can give a rational explanation of the move. The new policy was introduced by the government as a result of pressure applied by the United Auto Workers' Union on the grounds that it would help maintain employment in their industry. The Canadian manufacturers are against the idea since they can see that the end result of the move will be to make all cars—domestic, European imports and U.S. imports—more expensive for the buyer.

Oddly enough, Prime Minister Diefenbaker himself unwittingly provided an argument against re-evaluation in rebuttal in the Commons last week to charges by Opposition leader Pearson that the Canadian economy was in dire straits.

Among the statistics quoted by the PM to prove the essential soundness of the economy were these on Canadian production, 0.5-motor vehicles:

In the week ended Nov. 19 passenger car production was up from the previous week by almost 300 units and had increased from the previous month by 15.6 per cent. The increase from one year ago was a startling 85.8 per cent.

Canadian truck production in the same week was up by 8 per cent from the previous month and by 32.3 per cent from last year.

It is difficult to argue from figures like these that any form of protectionism is needed by the domestic auto industry. Certainly they add point to the Victoria Chamber of Commerce's protest last week which pointed out the anomaly of the government taking appropriate action to freeze the rail strike situation until the McPherson royal commission report is received while at the same time going ahead with the auto re-evaluation plan before the royal commission investigating that subject has completed its studies.

Employees' profit-sharing payments, totalling $13,076 were paid out during November to the 478 employees of Cunningham Drug Stores Ltd. and Western Wholesale Drug Ltd. This brings to $118,000 the full amount of profits shared for this current 12-month period.

The drug firm is in the 21st year of its profit-sharing plan which is based on one-third of the company's profits before taxes.

Importance to this part of the country of the federal conference on exports next week in Ottawa cannot be overstressed. B.C. lives by its exports and the present sag in the province's economy is attributable directly to loss of export markets for its products.

During the export drive conference the entire Trade Commission staff will be on hand to discuss, in individual interviews with business men, export possibilities to some 60 countries throughout the world.

It is to be hoped that business leaders from other parts of the province are responding to this challenge in a more vigorous manner than Victoria business men.

So far as can be discovered not one business leader from this community plans to attend the conference.

Sapphire Petroleum Ltd. is going into the bowling business, president Maxwell Goldhar told stockholders at Toronto, with planned acquisition of more than 300 lanes in seven

New England states establishments. Stockholders will be asked to approve the deal which would involve exchange of stock. The company is also considering entering the curling rink business.

Reaction of many U.S. business executives to Canadian government's proposal to bring about more Canadian industry and resources has been blunt and brutal, according to the Financial Post.

Post writer Norton Anderson interviewed top men at the 40th meeting of the National Industrial Conference Board in Pittsburgh and got these reactions:

"These foolish nationalistic tendencies in Canada ignore the important role we play in helping to develop Canada."

"Canadians should be 'grateful' that U.S. business has invested money and technical know-how in Canada."

"National sentiment is bunk. It's a matter of good management. A U.S. company investing in Canada is entitled to all the fruits of that Canadian effort."

"No Canadian is prevented from investing in our U.S. companies."

"Minority interest in the hands of Canadians would be bothersome. We wouldn't be able to wheel the Canadian subsidiary to suit our best interests. We would be accountable to those Canadian shareholders."

"What are Canadians crying about? If the money was available in Canada to develop resources and industry, U.S. interests would not be there. Canadians should be mighty pleased Americans are digging in up there, helping to build up the country."

NEW 'FERRY PRINCESS'

Downtown Victoria to downtown Vancouver transportation link vacated by CPR Princess ships may once again be available, this time with vertical lift aircraft. Okanagan Helicopters has announced plans to raise $3,000,000 to purchase three 'choppers, possibly like Boeing Vertol 107 pictured above, which could provide a 40-minute inter-city service.

The 70-foot packer Kaare, owned by Kaare Fishing Co., Vancouver, and loaded with herring from the West Coast, got into trouble when cargo shifted in the after hold, carrying away a bulkhead.

Tug Rescues Fishpacker In Distress

A Victoria tug won a tough-and-go battle to save a Vancouver fishpacker in stormy seas near Trial Island Wednesday.

Although her bilges remained dry, the packer's pumps could not contain the water in the after hold, and the Kaare settled at the stern until her after deck was awash.

A message was sent to search and rescue co-ordination centre at Vancouver, which asked the B.C. pilotage station to take charge. The Island Tug and Barge Co.'s tug Island Booster was sent to the scene, with veteran diver Jack Daley to supervise.

The pilotage launch B.C. Pilot No. 1 also went to the scene to stand by in case the crew needed to be taken off. The packer was manoeuvred into the lee of Trial Island, where Daley rigged a pump in the flooded hold. The diver had to go down into the hold to keep the pump clear of herring.

Pumping operations, which started about 4 p.m., were concluded by 9, and the packer was escorted into the Inner Harbor. She was able to leave for Vancouver this morning under her own power.

ALSO BEING considered for the service, which may start as early as next year, is the Sikorsky S-61. Both craft carry from 25 to 28 passengers, are fully instrumented, classed as all-weather craft.

NEW TUG TO 'GROW' BY HULL ON WAY HERE

Island Tug and Barge Ltd.'s new tug Island Mariner will actually be a tug and a half when she reaches here from England in January.

At the end of her towline will be the bare steel hull of another tug—a 97-footer which will be engine and fitted out in Victoria for service on the west coast.

The hull was built at Sorel, Quebec, commissioned by Island Tug with the assistance of its eastern associates, McAllister Towing Co. Ltd., Montreal.

McAllister moved the hull down from Sorel to New York, where it is to be picked up by Island Mariner, now finishing the Atlantic crossing.

Both tugs will be used in coastwise towing.

Civic Art Centre Brief Presented

A brief, setting forth tentative plans for development of the Royal Theatre and adjacent area as a civic auditorium and arts centre, was presented Wednesday night to a meeting of Victoria Symphony Society board members and representatives of various city cultural organizations.

The meeting, which took place at the Lansdowne Road home of Symphony president Jack Barraclough, was shown slides of the proposed development involving the new court-house, Christ Church Cathedral and the Royal Theatre.

Showing of the slides was accompanied by explanatory comments by Capital City Planning Commission's Brian Wiseman and city architect Rodney Clark.

Mr. Barraclough pointed out that the city's unique character together with growth of the university here strongly indicated the desirability of developing a centre having broad facilities for crafts, music, theatre and other entertainment.

As a necessary first step it was decided to forward a resolution to provincial and civic governments asking that immediate steps be taken to acquire control of property in the vicinity of the Royal, the courthouse and the cathedral.

A committee consisting of Mr. Barraclough, R. T. McKean, Mrs. Audrey Johnson and T. E. Watkins was named to follow up presentation of the resolution.

Mayor on Foray For Parking Aid

Ottawa Will Hear Off-Street Plans

Mayor Percy Scurrell will lead a delegation to Ottawa seeking federal financial assistance in developing an off-street parking facility, it was decided today.

An informal meeting of all aldermen voted to send the mayor in an effort to cut through red tape they feared might ensnare their proposal.

The specific proposal was not revealed.

The "off-the-record" session of aldermen was followed by this statement:

ALREADY DISCUSSED

"The last time the mayor was in Ottawa for the meeting of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, he discussed with federal Public Works Minister David Walker the question of federal assistance for civic off-street parking facilities.

"Since then, he has had encouraging correspondence and the mayor will go to Ottawa in an attempt to finalize the discussion."

It was understood that the Downtown Businessmen's Association, and possibly other organizations, would send representatives to fill out the delegation.

The mayor is expected to go as soon as appointments with government officials are arranged.

PRINCESS' DEPARTURE DELAYED

The former CPR steamer, Princess Joan, will move from the Belleville Street dock to Government graving dock, Esquimalt, at 7 a.m. Friday, to have the bottom cleaned prior to leaving for her new home port of Piraeus, Greece.

Sister ship Princess Elizabeth will be given the same treatment next week.

Wireless equipment of ocean-going standard is being installed in both ships. New owners had originally hoped the ships would leave this week, but it will be at least another week before they are ready.

The ships were sold to Greek interests after their Canadian steamship certificates expired.

Chatterton Not Seeking Nomination

Reeve George Chatterton of Saanich today said a report that he had applied for leave of absence from the federal civil service so he could go into the Esquimalt-Saanich by-election campaign was in error.

Reeve Chatterton, who is director of the Veterans Land Act here, also said he has not sought the nomination of any political party.

Political circles had reported Mr. Chatterton might be asked to stand as the Conservative nominee in the riding. Since the federal Elections Act does not permit a civil servant to stand for office, he would presumably have to resign his post to enter the political lists.

Mr. Chatterton declined any further comment on his future political plans, saying "I am still a civil servant."

His statement was interpreted by political observers as leaving the door open for any further steps when the by-election is called by Ottawa.

Tryout for Tyro Frogman Sunday As Course Ended

Ten fledgling frogmen will undergo a final check-out dive Sunday after completing a six-week course in skin diving sponsored by Victoria YMCA.

Starting in mid-October the 10, ranging in age from 18 to 51, underwent a course of instruction in the use of various types of underwater breathing apparatus under the direction of Art Burgess, the Y's new physical education director, and Frank White, local skin diver.

Mr. Burgess says he plans to start another course on Dec. 13—and, "it's not a Friday."

Man Ordered To Sell Dogs In Two Weeks

A Victoria man was given two weeks to sell a pair of expensive dogs when he pleaded guilty in city police court today to allowing one of them to run at large.

"I want to live in peace with my neighbors. I told them I would sell the dogs," Hans Kroenke, 703 Pine, told Magistrate William Ostler.

Kroenke was charged after a woman complained about an adult male German shepherd owned by him that knocked down a six-year-old child on Belmont Street.

The child was not bitten but suffered abrasions in his fall, court was told.

Kroenke said normally his dogs—at that time a "family" of three including a pup—were well behaved and liked by neighborhood children. The pup has been sold and he said he has advertised the others.

Mr. Ostler said, "There is an old saying you can kill with kindness," even though the dogs may not have been vicious.

Kroenke assured the court he was getting rid of the dogs, but that it would take a little time.

"I can't give them away because they are a good blood line and they cost me quite a bit of money."

Sentence was delayed until Dec. 15.

BCE Rate Formula Abolished by PUC

B.C. Electric Co. rates will get a closer look from the Public Utilities Commission in the future.

The PUC today abolished the formula upon which it based its approval of BCE rates and said it will pay close attention to its role as a public watchdog in the future.

The decision does not affect current BCE transit, gas or electricity rates, but will apply to the next application by the company for a change.

BCE President A. E. Grauer told the Times the company is not planning any immediate request for a rate boost.

COURT RULING

The PUC decision follows a Supreme Court of Canada ruling that BCE has a right to increase rates at will within a margin of profit not exceeding 6.5 per cent of its depreciated appraised value.

This figure was set by the PUC in 1952.

The PUC now says, in effect, that as it has no control over the rates within that amount, the public could pay the maximum amount for the minimum of service.

A statement by the PUC says future rate applications will be reviewed with these factors in mind:

- 1. To protect the public from excessive rates and ensure good service;

- 2. To give the BCE a fair and reasonable return on its operation and service.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Please tell me what establishment is now located at the site where the Empress Theatre once was.—J. V.

A. It's a parking lot. Address at one time was 1311 Government.

Q. What does a "sblite" in music mean?—R. R.

A. It is a group of dance tunes with four main movements—thus the term suite. The pieces, generally with a related theme, encompass variations from a slow, stately dance (sarabande) to the quick jig. Longer musical suites are often introduced with preludes.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times," Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. No will it attempt to put a value on oil, coins, stamps or securities. These should be submitted to dealer.

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1960—PAGE 21

... HERE AND THERE ... With NORMAN CRIBBENS

A member of the B.C. Legislature laughed when I told him I didn't like public speaking because I was afraid of "boring people."

"What a good thing you're not a politician," he said. Yet, come to think of it, some of our legislators might be less boring if they were afraid of being boring. The speech that seems to have no ending and doesn't seem to be getting anywhere is a great trial to the listener.

"Tell your friend if he continues parking by the fire hydrant at Discovery and Government Streets he is liable to be fined $20," said a member of Victoria fire brigade.

I had told, in this column, of the man who regularly parks beside this hydrant because he said it was an old seawater pump no longer used by the brigade.

Not so. This is a high-pressure hydrant and the one on the opposite corner is a low-pressure hydrant. There are old seawater pumps in Victoria but this isn't one of them.

Mrs. Jean Stuart Clark of 4036 Quadra is disappointed that no one remembers the old-time loggers' songs which used to be sung around the fires in logging-camp bunkhouses.

"Is no one interested in rescuing these old songs before the ox and horse-team drivers have passed on?" she writes.

"There are many, some living in rest homes and private hospitals, who remember the old ditties."

Mrs. Clark recalls the start of one of them, which went:

Beans, bacon and flapjacks
Flapjacks, bacon and beans.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Blind people, their guides and volunteer workers of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind gathered in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church hall Wednesday for their annual Christmas Party.

Guests included Public Works Minister W. N. Chant and Capt. M. C. Robinson, director of the CNIB in Western Canada.

Entertainment was provided by singer Pierre Timp, accompanied by his wife. Some 330 persons attended the function.

Theme of this month's meeting of Gordon Head Garden Club will be "It's Christmas, Let's Decorate." Meeting will be held in the Community Hall, Tyndall Avenue, Monday at 8 p.m.

Mrs. E. R. Etheridge will demonstrate the making of Christmas decorations and give members hints on the materials that can be used.

A short annual meeting will be held at the same time.

Victoria Chapter, Royal Canadian College of Organists, will hold its annual Christmas dinner meeting 7 p.m., Saturday, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. Milburn, 1530 Ash.

A turkey dinner will be followed by films, including one about Dr. Healey Willan, the Canadian musician and composer.

Already 4,200 tickets have been sold for the 22nd giant bingo night of Victoria Kinsmen to be held Monday, Dec. 19, in the Memorial Arena.

This leaves 3,400 additional seats available.

More than $10,000 in cash prizes will be available, with the two top games worth $1,000 each.

Three experts will discuss horses, riding and safety during a panel session at Friday's 8 p.m. public meeting at the CCF Hall, Richmond and Cedar Hill-Cross Road.

Dr. M. L. Olsen, veterinarian; Roy Jewell, farrier and trainer; and Bob Shanks, well-known horseman, will be members of the panel. Films and talks of interest to horsemen also will be offered. There will be no admission charge.

Oak Bay Cancels Stewardship Meet

Oak Bay council for the first time in a half century will not hold a "report to taxpayers" meeting prior to civic elections.

In past years council members reported on committee work and the reeve presented the overall municipal situation to the public.

The meet was generally held a week before elections.

Reeve George Murdoch said the discontinuance was because each year "less and less persons have attended."

The frigate HMCS Sussex will carry out practice firing in Juan de Fuca Strait, from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Friday, and from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Monday.

A report on mooring facilities in the Inner Harbor, discussion of a breakwater for Cadboro Bay and naming the third government ferry are one of the agenda for a luncheon meeting of the transportation and harbor group, Victoria Chamber of Commerce Monday at 12:15 p.m. at the Colonial Inn.

Because of a busy court schedule, a special trial time has been set in Saanich police court in the case of Henry Robinson, manager of the Milky Way Dairy, charged with refusing entrance of government inspector Peter Regehr to the dairy.

Scholarship Will Honor Late Professor Savannah

A memorial to the late Edward J. Savannah will take the form of a perpetual scholarship for a third year student at Victoria College continuing work in chemistry or allied science in the fourth year.

Decision to honor the memory of the professor in that way was reached at a meeting of his friends and colleagues at the College Wednesday night.

Pay Runs Out for Carvers Again

It is up to the local community to help keep totem carver Mungo Martin going through the winter, Education Minister Leslie Peterson said today.

Mungo and Henry Hunt, who work in Thunderbird Park here have received notice from the provincial museum that their pay stops Dec. 31.

Mr. Peterson said the Education Department budgeted $7,500 for Thunderbird Park this year, the same amount it has spent each year since 1956.

A similar situation occurred in 1956, and was one of the reasons for the Victoria Times' that a request for more was made in preliminary departmental estimates.

"I would think the community would come forward with something," said Mr. Peterson.

The province supported the project "because it is a very good thing for Victoria and the tourist business."

The government does not feel it is entirely responsible to keep the carvers going.

Mr. Peterson suggested that either some orders be found for the carvers or some other form of assistance provided by the local area.

"World's Tallest Totem" project. The carvers were faced with a cessation of income, and the newspaper, appealed to the community to raise funds to carve the giant totem that now stands in Beacon Hill Park.

More than 10,000 "shaves" were sold in the project, and many business and industrial firms donated their services, valued at a total cost of $8,500.

Prior to 1956, the provincial government provided $12,000 a year for the carvers.

TORONTO (UPI)—Disbarred lawyer Kenneth A. Glancy was sentenced to five years in Kingston Penitentiary today after pleading guilty to 10 charges of theft and one of forgery involving $100,000.

Glancy was charged in June with stealing a $2,200 cheque from Jack Phillips who had retained him to handle a property transaction. Other victims were clients, some of whom he had known for many years. All the charges involved mortgage deals.

SCHOOL ISSUE

Sit-In Student Struck

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A group of insult-screaming women manhandled a university student today in front of integrated William Frantz School, saying the youth led recent downtown sit-in demonstrations.

The women shouted curses, shoved and kicked Sydney Goldfinch, son of a Protestant minister. Police rescued him.

Police also rescued George Dreyfous, president of the Civil Liberties Union in Louisiana.

Three other youths accompanied Goldfinch and received police protection. Goldfinch is a Tulane University student.

"I didn't think they'd recognize me," he said.

Some of the women demonstrators accused reporter Jerry Hopkins of the New Orleans Times-Picayune of hitting them with a camp stool. Police told Hopkins he would have to leave the area or they would arrest him.

Earlier, one woman hit a reporter on the back when she was trying to keep television cameras away.

Two men on leave from Time and Life magazines, filming a documentary on the situation to be shown on television, were ordered by police.

PM Enters Strike Ban Debate

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker indicated in the Commons today that the people of Canada may be asked to pay higher freight rates after May 15 to meet the cost of a wage settlement in the union-rail contract battle.

The prime minister, resuming the debate on the government's stop-the-strike legislation, spelled out the probable future course of events after Parliament has invoked its authority to defer the Saturday threat of a national railway tie-up.

He said once the government has acted on the recommendations of the MacPherson royal commission on transportation, the freeze on freight rates will be lifted and railways will be free to seek an increase.

At that point, he indicated, the Canadian people may be asked to pay extra freight rates in order to meet wage increases for railwaymen.

Mr. Diefenbaker went before the House with a strike of some 111,000 non-operating railway workers still set for 8 a.m. local standard time Saturday — less than 48 hours away.

CRITICIZES LIBERALS

He attacked the Liberal opposition for its legislative action during a 1950 strike of the same "non-op" unions. At that time, the Liberal government passed a law that compelled the strikers to return to work and to submit part of their dispute to an outside arbitrator.

This time, Mr. Diefenbaker said, the government is acting to prevent a strike from starting, without taking sides and without imposing any compulsory arbitration.

The government is fighting a stiff attack from both Liberal and CCF-New Party critics on its emergency legislation aimed at deferring the railway wage crisis and the strike threat itself, until May 15.

Should the strike be allowed to take place, Labor Minister continued on Page 18

Gov't Urged To Abolish Dues Checkoff

The construction industry of B.C. asked the provincial government to wipe out the law which enforces check-off of union dues from wages in B.C.

In a general brief to the cabinet, the request was made by the B.C. Federation of Construction Associations.

Under the check-off system an employer deducts union dues from an employee's pay check and turns the money over to the union.

Construction men claimed the check-off should be wiped out because labor intends to join with the CCF and support it politically with union funds.

Already the provincial government has stopped the check-off for civil service union dues because of its affiliation with the labor organizations which are joining with the new party.

Full Commission To Meet Council

By JOHN MIKA

City council today summoned Memorial Arena Commission to a special meeting Saturday morning. The extraordinary session was called to deal with "new information" brought before aldermen this morning as the arena controversy exploded again.

No decision was taken on whether Saturday's session will be open or closed to the public.

The call for first official meeting between council and the commission since the controversy began a month ago appeared to reverse council's official position. Only last week aldermen voted confidence in the commission after an informal meeting that ran to midnight.

Commission Statement Friday

Meanwhile, arena commission members maintained silence on a verbatim report by commissioner Courtney Haddock in Wednesday editions of The Times severely lashing his colleagues.

Commission chairman F. G. Mulliner could not be reached but commissioner W. F. Pinfold said he was certain a reply would be made to Mr. Haddock's statement "but whether it will be by the commission as a whole or individually I do not know."

Mayor Scurrah said later that Mr. Mulliner told him a statement would be made by the commission Friday.

Aldermen spent more than an hour today discussing the series of controversies surrounding resignation of six former employees, the subsequent resignation of arena manager Joe Dukowski and the steps taken by the commission.

Following the meeting, Mayor Scurrah said:

"At a meeting in my office this morning attended by all the aldermen, it was decided to ask for a meeting with the arena commission to be held Saturday for the purpose of exploring new information that has been brought to council today.

"I have been informed that the commission also is making a statement Friday."

TWO DOGS ABOARD

Soviets Orbit New Space Ship

STOCKHOLM (Reuters)—The Swedish radio station at Enköping, 40 miles from Stockholm, reported tonight that signals from Russia's latest spaceship satellite stopped suddenly at 8:37 p.m. local time (1:37 p.m. PST).

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union today put in orbit its third space ship of the year carrying plants, animals, insects and two dogs named "Little Bee" and "Little Fly."

A scientist at Britain's Jodrell Bank Observatory said the feat shows the Russians now are capable of putting a man into space and bringing him back safely. "We expect a similar launching with a man aboard any day now," he said.

Tass news agency said the "spatnik-ship" without the last stage of the carrier rocket weighs about five tons which makes it the heaviest of all the man-made satellites.

Premier Khrushchev called it "a great victory and a step to man's flight into space."

In West Germany, H. Kaminski, head of the Bochum Observatory, said he believed the space ship would be brought back to earth Friday. He said the space ship's orbit was too close to the earth's surface and it would get "too hot."

Tass said the experimental animals are being watched with radio-television and telemetering systems.

Ivan Shevlyakov, chief of the Moscow Planetarium's scientific department, said this space ship is circling closer to the earth than previous Soviet space vehicles.

"That means the present space ship cannot fly for a long time," he said. "If they are not going to bring it down to earth, it means it will burn up very soon in the friction of the earth's atmosphere as it gradually loses altitude. It is flying very close to the earth's atmosphere where the friction is high. We don't know yet if they plan to bring this space ship back to earth."

CIGAR ORBIT
Tass said the space ship is circling the earth in a cigar-shaped orbit every 88.6 minutes. It is following a path ranging from 115 miles above the earth at its nearest point to 164 miles at its farthest. The vehicle is at a 65-degree angle of inclination to the equatorial plane of the earth, and its radio transmitter is operating on 19.995 megacycles.

U.S. Raps Reds' Stand On Congo

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — The United States charged Wednesday that the Soviet Union is doing all it can to undermine United Nations peace efforts in the Congo.

Britain earlier accused Russia of trying to impose an economic veto on the UN.

The charges resulted from Soviet refusal to pay its assessed share of the cost of the UN Congo force. A U.S. delegation spokesman said the refusal was "in line with the Soviet policy of seeking to destroy the United Nations, and to do everything it can to undermine the United Nations effort in the Congo."

The Soviet Union told the UN budgetary committee Tuesday that Hammarskjöld should submit proposals for ending the Congo operation in order to stave off UN bankruptcy.

"We do not believe the withdrawal of the United Nations forces now stationed in the Congo is the answer to the organization's financial problem," said Francis W. Carpenter, U.S. delegation spokesman.

BRITAIN DEFENDS DAG

In the budgetary committee Britain defended Hammarskjöld while Poland maintained the Soviet bloc attack on him. Antoni Czakowski, the Polish delegate, said Hammarskjöld had no right to put the 1960 Congo estimate of $66,000,000 in the regular budget. He said Belgium, former rulers of the Congo, should bear the main financial burden.

A. H. M. Hillis, the British delegate, said the Soviet Union wanted to put all controversial items outside the normal UN budget—a device that would enable it to avoid its regular UN assessment.

Hillis announced that Britain would forego its initial airlift costs of $520,000 for transporting men and material to the Congo, on the assumption that the Congo bill be made a part of the regular budget.

UN Waiting For Kennedy To Take Over

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The General Assembly is planning an unusual winter recess to await the views of the new Kennedy administration in Washington.

The assembly, still in sort of a state of shock since Soviet Premier Khrushchev's table-thumping antics at the start of this session, has not taken action on a single major issue in the last two months. It has given up hope of ending its business on the target date of Dec. 17.

The assembly has not fixed a definite date for the Christmas recess, but Dec. 17 is the date it hopes to be able to start the holiday. In previous years the assembly has concluded its fall session before Christmas.

Most delegates feel that the United States cannot make any hard decisions until Senator John Kennedy takes over the presidency. They do not want the 99-nation assembly to reconvene before the middle of February.

So far the major accomplishments of the assembly have been the perennial decision to shelve Communist China's bid for membership and seating of the Congo delegation backing President Joseph Kasavubu.

STAGGERING LIST

The assembly is confronted with a staggering list of 64 speakers who want a say on Russia's proposal to abolish all colonies at once.

Another of Khrushchev's ideas, a three-man board to replace Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld, has not been made into a formal proposal by the Russians.

Still coming up for discussion are acrimonious debates on Hungary and Tibet, and resolutions by the Soviet Union and Cuba accusing the United States of aggression.

Next week the political committee takes up the question of the Algerian rebels' six-year war for independence from France.

Right now the committee is discussing armament, a question on which its members would like to hear the views of the Kennedy administration.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Heavy ice-clogged three power plants on the Winnipeg River Tuesday and forced the Manitoba hydro-electric board to import electricity from Ontario and Saskatchewan.

"But fortunately for Canadians, conditions cannot be compared to scenes I have witnessed in travelling the length and breadth of India, into some of the most isolated villages and darkest slums."

"The hunger, the squalor, the dust and dirt, the overcrowding, are almost unbelievable to a Western mind."

We May Be Forced To Go Nuclear—Green

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canada might have to become a nuclear power in self-defence.

External Affairs Minister Green indicated Wednesday.

If disarmament fails and a world arms race begins, no country can hold out indefinitely, he said.

Mr. Green said he did not want to see Canada become a nuclear power but he would not suggest it would not.

Canada's foreign affairs spokesman said bluntly the United States is opposing Canadian disarmament resolution in the United Nations. He suggested the U.S. would bring pressure to bear on small, nuclear powers who might vote for the measure.

Mr. Green said the fact that Soviet Premier Khrushchev is "yelling as he has been in the last few days" shows that Canada's disarmament proposals are having the desired effect.

Unions Will Hold 'Review'

OTTAWA (CP) — The policy-making general conference committee of the 15 non-operating railway unions will be called into session if the government's stop-the-strike law is enacted, Frank H. Hall, chief union spokesman, said today.

He said that the committee—composed of some 100 general chairmen who represent the various locals in the 15 union "non-op" group—will "review and reassess the whole of their position."

U.S. Running Out of Power, Bought Time' on Columbia

British Columbia is getting a good deal from the U.S. in the Columbia River agreement because the Americans are fast running out of hydro power and want to buy time.

Lands and forests minister Ray G. Williston said this Wednesday, when he addressed a meeting of Oak Bay Kiwanis on "Power Development in the Peace and Columbia Rivers."

"With this power from the Columbia, Americans in the Pacific Northwest will come to the end of their hydro power resources," he said.

They were being forced to wards thermal (nuclear) power but had not yet found an economical way of developing it.

"Britain, he said, had done more than anyone else with atomic power because she needed it. But now the British government has said it is slowing down development because atomic power is not yet competitive.

"This province has as great a potential of cheap hydro power as any place in the world," Mr. Williston said. "Even when the Columbia is fully developed, it will still only produce about one half the power that is going to come from a single unit on the Peace River.

"Furthermore, the Columbia and Peace hold only one-tenth of the power in this province. Better than one-half of our industrial power lies north of Prince George."
